...Subpoenas Result Of Bugging Mafia's Trailer

©The New York Times

New York — A special force of 1,200 policemen swept through New York City and its suburbs Monday serving grand jury subpoenas on hundreds of members of the metropolitan area's five alleged Mafia crime families.

Also to be subpoenaed for questioning are 100 policemen who are suspected of having protected Mafia operations.

Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold, who directed the sweep, said it signaled "the most massive investigation of organized crime in the history of this country."

"The top people in organized crime have been subpoenaed," he declared at a crowded news conference called to announce the police sweep.

Although Gold refused to identify any of those subpoenaed, it was learned that at least three Mafia chieftains had been caught in the police dragnet.

They are Carmine Tramunti, head of the Mafia family formerly run by the late Thomas Lucchese; Natale Evola, head of the so-called Sciaccia family, and Paul Vario, a counselor to the Tramunti mob.

The police action climaxed a year-long investigation that last spring focused on an obscure little junkyard trailer in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn and employed an electronic listening device, telephone wiretaps, color motion pictures and still photography, as well as at least one undercover policeman.

Gold said the blue-and-gray, 40-by-15-foot trailer was "a summit headquarters" of organized crime in the New York area where members of all five Mafia families felt it was safe to meet.

The district attorney declared emphatically that the data gathered by his surveillance of the trailer indicated that despite frequent warfare among themselves, the five Mafia families — he never used the word Mafia — were "interlocked" in their activities and he promised "additional sensational developments" in the months ahead.

Over 650 Persons

In the course of the investigation, which Gold said monitored the movements and conversations of more than 650 mob figures "and other people," the authorities recorded 16 million feet of tape produced by the electronic bug and 21,600 feet of tape from telephone taps. The surveillance team also took 36,000 feet of color movies and 54,000 still pictures.

"We have pierced the veil of organized crime," Gold said, "stripping away the insulation that has hidden and protected many of the most important people in organized crime."

He did not otherwise identify "the other people," but sources close to the investigation said New York City policemen were among those photographed entering and leaving the trailer. It was understood that no government officials were seen, but some Long Island political figures were reportedly mentioned in monitored conversations in the trailer.

Planted In Ceiling

About an hour later, Gold translated his metaphor into reality when, accompanied by two busloads of newsmen, he went to the Canarsie trailer and literally stripped away some ceiling insulation to remove the listening device his men had planted there last April.

As a result of his office's surveillance of the Canarsie trailer, 677 subpoenas were issued bearing the names of Mafia figures and others who had been seen and photographed visiting the trailer. "Every one of those subpoenaed had been in the trailer," Gold said.

The 677 represented, according to the best estimates, about one-third of the total Mafia membership in the metropolitan area.

Gold said something in excess of 300 of the subpoenas had actually been served Monday, but predicted that up to 1,000 witnesses would ultimately be summoned before the Brooklyn rackets grand jury investigating organized crime.

The subpoenas were served in all five boroughs of New York City as well as in Westchester, Rockland and Nassau Counties.

Crimes Listed

At his news conference, Gold listed the range of crimes he said were discussed in the trailer and recorded by his surveillance team. They included narcotics sale, assault and robbery, extortion, hijacking, receiving stolen property, loansharking, counterfeiting, forgery, possession and sale of weapons, burglary, official corruption, stolen auto rings, labor racketeering, insurance frauds, coercion, book-making, policy, untaxed cigarettes, prostitution and liquor violations.

The police sweep was launched at 4 a.m. after the 1,200-man force had been assembled at 12 widely scattered command posts.

As late as 10:30 a.m. Monday, Mafiaosi were still being heard by authorities discussing their affairs in the Canarsie trailer. The major subject of conversation, according to sources, was the sudden issuance of subpoenas to many of their friends.

Relief For Renters Studied By Solons

...IN TAX CREDIT PLAN

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Members of a legislative study committee Monday kicked around the possibility of providing tax relief for renters matching the property tax relief which homeowners would receive as a result of increased state aid to schools.

It could come in the form of a residential renters income tax credit plan.

Under such a proposal being considered by the state aid study committee, renters could apply a certain percentage of their annual rent payments as a credit against their state income tax liability.

The supposition is that renters, in effect, pay property taxes through their rental payments since the property tax liability of landlords presumably is built into the rental charges.

Increased state aid to the schools would replace local property tax dollars with state sales and income tax revenue.

But, it is assumed, landlords are not likely to lower their rental charges even if their costs are lowered by a reduction in their property taxes.

An income tax credit would allow renters to receive the same measure of tax relief which would be accorded to their landlords and to homeowners.

One of the alternative plans to increase the level of state aid to the schools proposes a 13% renters income tax credit if the state should take over the responsibility of paying for the full operational costs of the schools.

The 100% state funding plan will be presented to the public for its reaction at a series of statewide hearings in October and November along with other proposals to provide 60% or 75% state funding.

The amount of state aid is now $35 million a year, or less than 15% of current school costs.

The 13% renters credit is an estimate of the percentage of rental payments which goes to support the schools in the form of property taxes.

But, Sen. Jules Burchard of Crofton pointed out, it is a percentage which needs further study.

"It's a shot in the dark," he said. "More work needs to be done before we can accept that formula."

Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln said he would want some provision in the law to see that renters would not receive both a possible rent reduction (reflecting the decrease in property taxes) and an income tax credit.

"It should be one or the other," he noted.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, committee chairman, said resolving the problem in an equitable manner will be "exceedingly complicated."

No effort was made to provide tax relief for renters when the state abandoned the property tax field in 1967.

The committee will hold hearings next week in Norfolk, Grand Island, Seward, Ashland and Tecumseh. More hearings will be scheduled Nov. 13-16.

The hearings are designed to receive citizen reaction to a number of alternative approaches to increasing state aid to the schools.

Various distribution formulas will be presented along with the varying amounts of state aid support. Phased increases will also be considered.

Estimated total school operating costs for the 1974-75 school year have been pegged at $200 million.

Thus, 60% state funding would amount to about $180 million, or $145 million more than the present amount. That would probably push the state sales tax rate from 2 1/2% to 4 1/2%, and boost the personal income tax rate from 15% to about 25%.

EQUIPMENT DONATED FOR CONSTRUCTION CLASSES

Seventh-grade students in Lincoln Public Schools World in Construction classes will get an added boost toward understanding the processes of surveying and construction with the help of materials and equipment donated by women in the construction business. The equipment includes a builders level, a stadiometer and 40 hard hats. School industrial education consultant Robert E. Law says the addition of the equipment will permit students practical experiences

"to make the theory meaningful." Taking a look at the equipment are, from left, Irving Junior High teacher Bill Schwartzendruber; Penny Singleton, president of the Greater Lincoln Club of Women in Construction; and Chuck Randolph, Irving student. Law said the level and rod will also be used in high schools classes throughout the city. (Star Photo)

State Employee Insurance Varies Widely

...SURVEY SHOWS 19 AGENCIES OFFER NO PLAN AT ALL

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Approximately 19,000 state employees contribute $3.5 million annually to the various life, health and disability insurance programs offered by a majority of state agencies, a survey shows.

However, the survey also reveals that the 58 participating agencies have differing policies scattered among 21 insurance companies. The result is that coverage varies between agencies as do the size of the state's contributions which range from nothing to 100% of the premiums.

This "helter-skelter" insurance program, as State Insurance Director James Jackson called it, is the main finding emerging from the survey done by State Personnel Director William C. Peters.

The study was directed towards helping a Legislative committee, a committee of agency heads under the direction of the governor and the State Personnel Office come up with a uniform fringe benefit proposal for presentation to the 1973 Unicameral.

The survey also documents that while 58 agencies now offer a life, health and/or disability package in one form or another, 19 agencies make no provision for an employee insurance plan.

Current appropriations make no provision for state participation in a state employee insurance plan, so the various agencies must seek out an insurance plan on their own. The agencies normally fund the plans through what budget officials term "vacancy savings" — a position which the agency had funded but never filled.

The packages offered by the individual agencies range from what Jackson called "good," such as the University's (which includes life, health and disability benefits), to minimal.

According to the survey, 45 agencies offer a life insurance package, most commonly $5,000 double indemnity plan paid for by the agency with an $1,000 optional dependent coverage to be paid for by the employee.

The biggest underwriters for the agencies are Bankers Life Nebraska, Security Mutual Life Nebraska, Ohio National Life Insurance Co., Mutual of Omaha, Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association of America, Woodmen Accident and Life Co. and Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Four agencies now offer their employees health insurance — the Railway Commission, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, University of Nebraska-Omaha, and the Technical Assistance Agency.

Even among those four, coverage is different. The Railway Commission pays up to $120 per month on the premium for each employee. At UNL, the survey says the employees pay the entire premium, while at UNO the state pays one-half the premium cost. The federal government picks up the health insurance tab for TAA employees.

In the area of disability insurance, the Department of Public Institutions offers its employees at 13 institutions and its central office a plan as do the Department of Labor, Kearney State College and the University of Nebraska at its three campuses.

Surrounding states, the survey shows, each approach the insurance question in a different way, although most have a uniform plan. For instance, whereas Iowa has no plan, Kansas pays 100% of the life insurance premiums which gives 50% of the final average salary at the time of death.

All five surrounding states have health insurance programs which vary from Missouri's where the employee pays all to Kansas which pays 80%.

As the insurance package proposed by the Exon administration stands, the state will contribute $15 per month per employee towards life and health insurance with the employee picking up the balance of the premium. Peters discounts the feasibility of a disability plan at this time.

But for the $180 per employee annually, Peters said "I think we can get a practical life insurance plan of $5,000 per employee and a standard health package."

Peters called a uniform state insurance plan "a real benefit to the employees."

And as Jackson pointed out a uniform package does not preclude an agency from offering higher coverage if the employee wants to pay for it, although all present groups plans would terminate.

"No one would be in a worse position than they are now," Jackson stated.

Still a number of questions remain, such as what the employee will have to pay, what the extent of coverage will be and what the total bill to the state would be.

Assuming the present 19,000 state employees remain in the plan, the cost would come to $3.4 million for a year.

Senate Cuts Foreign Aid

Washington (AP) — The Senate voted a sharp cut in foreign aid appropriation Monday, adding another potential roadblock to efforts to wind up the business of the 92nd Congress Tuesday night.

The Senate stripped $515.4 million from the $4 billion annual foreign aid spending level voted by the House Saturday night in adopting a resolution to permit continued spending until next Feb. 28.

The amendment was proposed by Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations, and adopted by the full committee and the Senate by voice vote.

Fulbright To Fight

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, warned that if the bill comes back from House-Senate conference with substantial increases over the Senate's $3.4 billion total, he would "do everything possible to prevent its adoption." Fulbright said he would like to limit military aid portions of the program to administrative expenses, and phase out the grant program with the $1.8 billion still in the pipeline.

The Senate, with little else to do, recessed for several hours waiting for its Appropriations Committee recommendation on the foreign aid issue.

The House, meanwhile, was in recess until Tuesday with action scheduled on compromise versions of the big Social Security bill with its welfare reform provisions stripped in conference, and the controversial bill to increase the national debt limit and impose a $250 billion spending ceiling for this fiscal year.

Lots of Talk Foreseen

The House must act first on both bills before they go to the Senate where majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., conceded that "considerable conversation" could be expected.

The dispute over the level of foreign aid appropriations cropped up on a resolution continuing authority for foreign aid programs in the absence of a new authorization bill for military assistance.

A prior resolution continuing the program since July 1 at a $2.9 billion annual rate expired Saturday midnight.

The President's budget for foreign aid this year is $5.1 billion. Last year's appropriation was $3.1 billion.

The effect of the House-passed continuing resolution would be to continue foreign aid spending until next Feb. 28 at a $4 billion annual rate. Inouye's amendment would cut the spending level to $3.4 billion based on the lowest item amounts in the House-passed resolution or in last year's appropriation bill.

Reductions

The Inouye proposal reduced House loans by $150 million, direct grants for foreign military forces by $99.4 million, security supporting assistance grants by $135 million and military credit sales by $35 million.

The need to rely on a continuing resolution rather than let foreign aid die resulted from a deadlock in House-Senate conference on an unrelated issue in the military foreign aid bill.

The House conferees refused to accept, and the Senate conferees refused to yield, on a Senate-passed provision requiring the President to submit all future agreements for military bases overseas to the Senate for ratification as treaties by a two-thirds vote. Present law requires only that the President report to Congress of arrangements made.

It's SSD Minus 29

"Super Safety Day" is Nov. 15. This is one in a series of 100 to help avoid any Nebraska traffic accidents that day.

The two-second rule is a good way to learn to recognize safe following distance. Just watch the vehicle ahead of you pass some definite point on the highway, such as a mailbox or a light pole. Then count to yourself, "one thousand and one, one thousand and two." That's two seconds. If you pass that same spot before you finish those words, you are following too closely. So drop back to a safe distance.

News Summary

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — Less than 12 hours after he was sworn in as Army chief of staff, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams was sent to South Vietnam Monday on what was officially portrayed by Pentagon spokesmen as a routine on-the-scene assessment of growing South Vietnamese military capabilities. Officials, however, hinted that the visit, coming only four months after Abrams returned from four years as military commander in Vietnam, was far from routine. (More on Page 3.)

announced that three senior officials of the security service had been dismissed because of the failure to provide adequate protection for the Israeli Olympic team in Munich, West Germany. It was the first time that the Israeli government had formally acknowledged that its own precautions had been insufficient Sept. 5 when 11 members of the team died as a result of a raid by Arab terrorists.

'Opinion Leaders' Attacked

Washington — President Nixon attacked Monday "the so-called opinion leaders of this country" for failing to support him last May after he ordered the bombing of North Vietnam and the mining of its ports to deter the "specter of defeat" in the Vietnamese war. Nixon spoke extemporaneously during a surprise visit at the Washington conference of the National League of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia and delivered a slashing indictment of his critics.

Nixonites React

Washington — President Nixon's re-election forces reacted on three fronts to charges that important Nixon aides had created and sustained a widespread effort to disrupt the Democratic campaign. One of these reactions was White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who described the charges as "hearsay, innuendo, guilt by association."

McGovern: Nixon 'Ruthless'

Los Angeles — Sen. George McGovern, prompted by a disturbance at a meeting with union officials in Los Angeles, characterized the Nixon administration as the "most ruthless" in history and lectured the news media on

Reds Expand Hills Operations

Saigon — Enemy forces expanded operations in the central highlands Monday, forcing South Vietnamese militiamen to abandon a fire base under heavy shelling.

The U.S. Command reported that two Americans died and six others were wounded when shrapnel hit a rescue helicopter at the base.

The enemy opened up with mortar and recoilless rifle barrages against Fire Base 43, about 20 miles south of the provincial capital of Pleiku.

Field reports said a militia battalion withdrew in the early evening following afternoon-long shelling. There was no report of any ground attack.

The shelling wounded a U.S. adviser at the base, reports said. A mortar round killed the pilot and one other American aboard a helicopter that touched down to extract the adviser.

Sarabiel also was said to have wounded three of the helicopter crewmen and two other U.S. advisers aboard the craft. The wounded were rescued by helicopter.

The South Vietnamese toll was put at two killed, four wounded.

Farther north in the highlands near the Cambodian border, harassing attacks were reported on road traffic north and south of Pleiku. Four rockets hit Kontum's air field, killing one militiaman and wounding another.

The U.S. Air Force said American jets destroyed an enemy MIG fighter at a base 89 miles northwest of Hanoi in the course of 270 strikes against North Vietnam Sunday.

The command belatedly reported that a MIG shot down a Thailand-based F4 Phantom last Thursday. Both crewmen are missing, the Air Force reported.

Every 1 1/2 Days
The loss, 25 miles north of Hanoi, brought the U.S. air toll over the North since April to 112 planes lost and 122 American fliers killed or captured — an average of one airman every 1 1/2 days.

Small-scale enemy activity disrupted traffic on four of five major roads radiating from the Saigon area.

The action could be calculated to alarm capital residents and influence peace negotiations by giving an inflated impression of enemy strength, some sources said.

B52 bombers dumped 750 tons of bombs in an arc 21 to 36 miles north of Saigon. U.S. military traffic was advised to stay off the roads and ordered to move only in armed groups on one of them.

600-Man Cut
In Saigon, the U.S. Command reported that American troop strength in Vietnam dropped to 34,600 as of last Thursday — a cut of 600 men.

The figure, like the Dec. 1 goal of 27,000, takes no account of some 100,000 American servicemen participating in the war effort from ships and bases elsewhere in Southeast Asia.

President Nguyen Van Thieu met in Saigon with his top ambassadors and cabinet members to discuss the secret peace negotiations in Paris described by U.S. officials as being in an important stage.

The officials meeting with Thieu included Tran Kim Phung, ambassador to Washington; Ambassador Pham Dan Lam, chief of the South Vietnamese delegation to the Paris Peace talks; and Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam.

McGovern Charges GOP
Pays 50 To Sabotage Race

By United Press International
Sen. George McGovern charged Monday the Republicans hired 50 persons "to sabotage and corrupt" the 1972 presidential campaign.

President Nixon — in a clear reference to his opponent — said he would not leave American prisoners' fate to the good will of the enemy.

McGovern told aerospace union leaders in Los Angeles he would create two million jobs "in the earliest days" of his administration by pumping $10 billion into housing, transportation, pollution control and public service projects.

He also told them the alleged hugging of Democratic headquarters in Washington and efforts to throw Democratic primary campaigns into disarray were "some of the shabbiest undercover operations in the history of American politics."

Nixon made a surprise visit to the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia holding its third annual convention in Washington.

"We shall not agree to any settlement which imposes a Communist government upon the people of Vietnam," Nixon said, never mentioning McGovern by name. "We shall, under no circumstances, abandon our POWs and MIAs."

"That means that we cannot leave their fate to the good will of the enemy," Nixon said.

McGovern contends that if the United States pulls out of Southeast Asia in 90 days, as he proposes, the prisoners would be released just as they were when the French pulled out of Vietnam in the 1950s.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has "confidence" in his appointments secretary, Dwight

L. Chapin, who has been linked to the alleged efforts to disrupt Democratic campaigns.

Several publications charged this week that Chapin hired Donald L. Segretti, 31, a Los Angeles attorney who once worked for the Treasury Department, to carry out espionage against the Democrats.

The articles alleged that Segretti got his assignments from E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former CIA agent who was one of seven men indicted in the alleged bugging of the Democratic headquarters at the Watergate Hotel, and that he was paid by Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal lawyer, from secret funds controlled by the Committee To Re-elect the President.

"These stories are based on the hearsay, on sources which will not reveal themselves," Ziegler said under much questioning. "I'm not going to get into extensive response to stories based on hearsay where guilt by association is implied."

Schools' Leasing Plan Left Standing By Court

Washington (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court Monday let stand a lower court decision that a classroom leasing arrangement in Nebraska between a public school district and a parochial one did not violate constitutional requirements of separation of church and state.

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled in February 1972 that the state Board of Education must approve an arrangement by the Hartington School District to lease two rooms in the Hartington Cedar Catholic High School building.

The public district had sought use of the rooms for remedial classes in reading and mathematics because of a space shortage in its own buildings. A total of 84 students would be enrolled in the reading program, 32 of them from the private school, and 52 in the math course, 16 of them from the private school.

The Board of Education disallowed the leasing program, even though the contract stipulated the rooms would be used in accordance with federal school aid program requirements and under the full control of the public district, and that nothing with a religious connotation would be viewable in the classrooms.

The state board objected to the lease on ground that aside from practical problem in putting public equipment on private grounds and maintaining "a constant surveillance" on its use, "it is logical to believe that such a practice may become quite widespread" in view of overcrowded conditions existing in many public school facilities.

The district countered, and was upheld by the Lancaster County District Court and the Nebraska Supreme Court, that to deny the arrangement would be to deny both the potential students and the parochial school their own constitutional protections.

It would have the effect, the district argued, of denying a parochial student the right to participate in a public program solely because he was enrolled in a parochial school. That would deny him the right to a free exercise of religion and equal protection of the law, the district argued in its brief.

"Further, to deny a parochial school the right to lease some of its classrooms would seem to deny to the parochial school the equal protection of the law," the brief said.

Stanley Says Decision Will Allow Easier Administration Of Funds

By United Press International

An official said Monday a U.S. Supreme Court decision on the leasing of classroom space in private schools by public schools would clear the way to easier administration of federal special education funds in Nebraska.

"I suppose it's only fair to say the department will find the situation easier to handle," said State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley.

"This makes it easier for us to administer the programs in terms of federal regulations," he added.

Earlier Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld on a 7-2 vote a Nebraska Supreme Court ruling which said the Hartington Public Schools could legally rent space in the Hartington Cedar Catholic School.

The suit resulted from a decision last year by Stanley not to allow federal Title I funds to be used in such a venture on the grounds it violated the constitutional separation of church and state.

"Caught In Dilemma"

"We have been caught in a dilemma in the past," Stanley said.

The federal standards required special education funds to be used so that private school students received services "comparable" to those offered to public school students.

However, in order to do that, Stanley said he was advised by attorneys there would be a violation of the separation clause.

Lincoln attorney Robert Crosby, who handled the case in behalf of the Hartington School District, termed the nation's high court decision "gratifying."

"Less Discrimination"

"The benefits to handicapped children under the federal (Title I) program can now be administered in Nebraska with less discrimination against those enrolled in non-public schools," he said.

However, in answer to a question, the attorney said he "would rather not speculate on whether leasing of classrooms in private schools could be applicable to other educational programs than the federal program involved in the Hartington case."

Specifically, the school district sought funds to conduct remedial classes for students from both schools in the space leased from the parochial school.

C. C. Sheldon, assistant attorney general, termed the decision the "end of the road" in the state's attempt to fight the decision.

"No Other Options"

"There are no other options available," he said after the U.S. Court agreed with the state Supreme Court that there was no violation of the separation clause.

Sheldon originated the appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court saying a "very widely fragmented" ruling at the state level prevented clear actions.

Nebraska Supreme Court judges voted 4-3 on parts of the decision and a 5-2 on others. The state's Constitution, however, requires at least a five-judge majority in order to settle any constitutional question.

While the nation's high court decision was not unanimous, Sheldon said, at least it was a "little more clear-cut than the state's decision."

Nixon To Ink Revenue Bill On Friday

Washington (AP) — President Nixon will fly to Philadelphia Friday to sign the revenue sharing bill in Independence Hall before the governors, mayors and congressmen he has invited to attend.

The White House said Nixon will be the host at a reception for the invited guests after the ceremony.

"It is a non-political trip," said deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren in making the announcement.

Nixon plans to return to Washington after the reception.

Governors of all the states, members of the House and Senate, and mayors of about 100 cities as well as a representative group of state legislators and county officials are being invited, the White House said.

ARMY CHIEF SWORN IN

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, 58, takes his oath from Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to become the new Army chief of staff as Mrs. Abrams hold the Bible in the Pentagon ceremony. An honor guard is in the background. Laird immediately dispatched Abrams to Vietnam for a fresh look at the war he presided over for the past 4 years.

The general is to report back in about a week after making an "on-the-scene evaluation of Vietnamization progress." The announcement was a surprise, even to high-ranking Army leaders who Pentagon officials said were unaware of the trip. Presumably, Abrams' report will be made public shortly before the November general election.

Supreme Court Rules Strikers May Get Welfare

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday unanimously struck down Maryland regulations which deny welfare aid to families because the father is on strike or has been fired.

The court rejected appeals by the state and by the Chamber of Commerce.

Without even holding a hearing, it affirmed a decision by a federal court in Baltimore that the regulations conflict with federal welfare rules.

Last summer, however, the government told the high court in a memorandum that the federal regulations would be clarified to allow Maryland the option of barring strikers and employees discharged for "gross misconduct."

Thus, the full impact of the Supreme Court's decision is not immediately clear.

Four other states, Nebraska, Kansas, Utah and Oregon, also bar welfare to otherwise eligible strikers, according to Maryland's May 5 appeal to the high court.

The court in Baltimore followed up its initial decision with a permanent injunction to force Maryland to give aid to eligible fired workers. The state immediately complied.

As for strikers, the court in Baltimore held up its injunction pending the outcome of Maryland's appeal to the Supreme Court.

The Chamber of Commerce, in its appeal, argued only against payment of state welfare benefits to striking workers.

The suit was brought initially by the Legal Aid Bureau in Baltimore for Robert Francis, a striker, and for Edward Wright, who was fired from his job for absenteeism.

In Lincoln, Nebraska Welfare Director Lawrence Graham declined immediate comment on the ruling and said he would check with federal Health, Education and Welfare officials in Washington to determine what the high court's ruling meant.

"In order to qualify for welfare, a person has to meet the qualifications for the category," he said. "I would not think someone on strike would meet these, but I will have to see what the ruling said."

However, he declined further comment until he had seen the opinion.

Japan's Exports Rocket

—The New York Times

Tokyo — Japan's exports registered a huge surplus of $920 million over imports in September, the Finance Ministry and the Bank of Japan announced Monday. The surplus was the third largest on record.

Both exports and imports soared to their highest monthly gains ever, but the increase of exports was far greater than that of imports.

Exports totalled $25.8 billion, a gain of 25% over those of the corresponding month of 1971, while imports soared to $16.6 billion, an increase of 37%.

Both government and business circles believe that Japan's trade surplus for the whole of fiscal 1972, ending next March, will exceed $9 billion.

Machinery and other manufacturers have renewed their efforts recently to step up the export of their products.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You look at the pulling and hauling in Congress over matters of welfare reform and national spending and you can't help but conclude the nation still has a long way to go in assessing and determining its priorities. And in thinking about this, it is well to consider the meaning of "priorities."

If it is just another word to you, one that you can put alongside such things as ecology, law and order, equal opportunity, etc., then you are in the same boat as Congress. The word is more than a gathering together of letters from the alphabet.

Rather, it means to express our ideals and our objectives as a civilized race of human beings. It means to include the individuality of each of us, how best we are to fulfill some purpose in life and how we are to realize our maximum potential.

But Congress has not yet decided where the human race in America is going and, therefore, cannot come up with the answers in two areas that are vital to our national interests. Both welfare reform and domestic spending are key elements in the economic status of millions of Americans and are key elements, therefore, in the life style and standard of living of millions of people.

But we have not yet decided, even, what kind of role or responsibility government has in helping to shape the future of people as opposed to letting nature take its course. Until we make this fundamental decision, we will continue to experience the kind of aimlessness that Congress is now engaged in.

The problem with revenue spending is not so much the extent of our expenditures, as the bill directs itself to, as it is the question of where we will spend our money. The debate tends to center on the principle of limited spending, which the bill in question would definitely do.

But the Congress is really more concerned over where the President would spend national funds if he is given blanket authority to limit spending to $250 billion in the fiscal year, beginning next June 30.

Most of Congress would undoubtedly agree to a limit on spending if there could be any agreement on where the dollars would go. But one group wants more spending on welfare, another looks for more public improvements, another looks for a stronger defense, another wants a greater international role and so it goes until the factions are so split that a majority is impossible on the initial question of the limit.

Much the same thing is true in the area of welfare reform. It just doesn't make sense that the Congress is unable to come up with an adequate welfare reform program.

What does make sense is the fact that Congress is unable to agree on the concept of welfare reform. The whole area of welfare is split wide open between those who would have none of it on the one hand and those who would have pure socialism on the other hand.

We doubt that there are really many people who disapprove of welfare in its entirety but they have such a strong work ethic that they have difficulty in sifting the good from the bad.

Many of these people seem to believe that anyone who truly is willing to work can find an adequate place for himself in our economic structure. Thus, they tend to think that human adversity and suffering on the economic scene is largely a product of the individual's own laziness.

But this flies in the face of the fact that very, very few people would willingly accept a life of abject poverty. They are impoverished, not because of laziness, but because of factors with which they have been unable to cope.

Even when you get down to the individual with whom personal initiative is a problem, you have the question of his inability to cope with a human weakness. And you get down to a matter with which all of us should be concerned.

But in our national life, we still have not defined the responsibilities for society as opposed to those of the individual and that is why we have extreme difficulty in establishing national programs that directly affect the economic well-being of people.

BOB CONSIDINE
And By Our Statistics
They Shall Know Us

NEW YORK — When the United States is dug out of its radio-active ashes a couple thousand years hence, a la Pompeii, the excavators will have no trouble piecing together our civilization if they find a book titled "Statistical Abstract of the U.S.—1972." It's our Rosetta Stone, the key to what we were and what we hoped to be at the time of the Great Nuclear Miscalculation.

The 1,017-page record published by the Commerce Department examines just about everything American from about 1800 to the present. It's the 92nd annual edition and is for sale at $5.50 by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Or, for 10 cents you can purchase USA Statistics in Brief—1972, and get a 25% discount if you order 100 or more of these condensations.

Well, as of now, we are inhabited by 207,000,000 residents, 58 people per square mile. If you're married, and male, you're the underdog in the race to outlive your wife. There are 5,000,000 more females than males in this country. The female child's life expectancy is 74.6 years; the male's 71.1. There are a whopping 28,000,000 senior citizens playing shuffleboard somewhere. Less than 10% of the 46,500,000 white families are headed by women, as contrasted to nearly 30% of "Negro and other" families.

Some 393,000 couples were divorced in 1960. By last year, the figure had risen to 768,000. You have the permission of Peter G. Peterson, secretary

Rise in Ticket-Splitting Seen

If Sen. McGovern continues to close the gap between him and President Nixon at the rate he has maintained the past month, it will still not be a particularly close election, even though in some polls he has cut the President's lead by almost ten percentage points.

The only thing half-way surprising that can be seen in the various samplings of public opinion is that Nixon apparently doesn't have very long coattails — A Nixon landslide will not result in a Republican Congress.

A Louis Harris poll taken over the first ten days of this month shows that Democratic congressional candidates were ahead by nine points, 48-39%, among 1,535 voters across the nation who were asked "If the election were being held today and you had to decide right now, in this congressional district, would you vote for the Republican or Democratic candidate for Congress?" The edge is identical to the 49-40% split the Democrats enjoyed at this time four years ago when they retained control of the Congress, although losing the popular vote for president by a slim margin. Ticket splitting, says Harris, is much more in evidence than it was even in 1968, although the situation may be stabilized on election day by the "tug of traditional party loyalty and the mechanics of actual ticket-splitting."

A few things can be understood from this indicated ticket-splitting. One is that the voters are dissatisfied with both presidential candidates, regarding one as merely the lesser of two evils. Another, as Harris suggests, is that is that voters, disenchanted with politics and politicians, want a president of one party and a Congress of the other, so that they can each check up on the other.

And we agree with Harris' belief that Richard Nixon's dream of a "new majority," which his election would signify in his mind, will not be realized, because the percentage of voters who view themselves as Republicans and the percentage who view themselves as Democrats has remained remarkably constant, according to Harris, figures.

A GOP presidential election landslide of unprecedented proportions, if Congress remains Democratic, can be viewed as sort of a one-time thing. It will not profoundly alter the trends in American politics.

The Fight Against Crime

In his weekend radio address, President Nixon said his administration has "fought the frightening trend of crime and anarchy to a standstill" and asked Americans to join him in making "the next four years a period of new respect for law, order and justice... a time of new hope in a land free from fear, and a world at peace."

The President contrasted the situation now with that of four years ago when he said there was a "rising tide of disorder and permissiveness," and noted statistics showing that crime nationwide increased only 1% during the first half of this year and actually decreased in 72 large cities and that shows that "the raging heroin epidemic of the late Sixties has been stemmed."

Has crime been battled to a standstill? Statistics, manipulated by politicians, really don't tell the whole story. McGovern supports can point out that sure, the rate of increase of criminal activity has slowed down to 1% during the first half of the year, but the President does not mention that crime had risen by 30% in his first three years in office. And contrary to the President's soothing words about the drug problem, McGovern says that the number of hard drug addicts has almost doubled since the end of 1969 and that "because of incompetent prosecutors appointed by President Nixon, the conviction rate for narcotics violators in the federal courts has plummeted from 79% in 1968 to 59% last year."

Statistics aside, much has yet to be done in fighting crime and drug addiction. It really isn't a winning battle until the increase trend is reversed. Both candidates, we believe, would work toward that end. That isn't one of the issues that divide us.

Speculation on Kissinger Meetings With Hanoi; Continued Bombing No Submission Guarantee

NEW YORK — Unless Lee Duc Tho and Dr. Henry Kissinger are engaged in an incredible international hoax designed to get President Nixon re-elected, they not even cynical old Nixon-watchers are likely to believe, there probably are only two possible explanations for their repeated "secret" meetings, the last of which went on for four days.

One is that they are making slow but steady progress toward a negotiated settlement of the war. The other is that, having got within striking distance of such a settlement, close enough to keep them talking, they nevertheless have run into difficult final barriers.

Either way, and despite the continued American bombing of their cities and mining of their harbors, the North Vietnamese are still there, still meeting privately with Kissinger, obviously still talking. That is enough in itself to make these look like the most serious peace negotiations of the Nixon administration.

This conclusion is supported by the fact that Hanoi now has the details of Sen. George McGovern's peace plans. If McGovern should get a chance to implement those plans, they would certainly provide a better deal for the North Vietnamese than anything Nixon has publicly offered, or suggested he would accept. Nixon, moreover, insisted at his last news conference that he would "never agree to a settlement that would impose a communist government directly or indirectly on the people of South Vietnam" and that "the mining and bombing will continue, of course, until we get some agreements on the negotiating front."

Coupled with his criticism of the bombing halt of 1968 "without adequate agreements from the other side," those statements seem to suggest that Nixon intends to rain death and destruction on North Vietnam until he gets an agreement that does not impose a communist government in Saigon "directly or indirectly."

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetition will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by the writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Jim Studnicka
Lincoln, Neb.

Although temporarily waylaid by an appendectomy, Jim Studnicka is still the strongest candidate for county commissioner.

Stu's stand on the Guarantee Foods Agreement is only one of many examples pointing out that he not only believes a sound bidding program is necessary but also that he would firmly enforce a uniform purchasing policy.

CHARLES MCDANIEL

McGovern's Position
Lincoln, Neb.

Surrender — that's what we Nixonites always have called McGovern's peace plan from Day One.

The Star's editorial, "McGovern Proposal Futile," Oct. 12, says the newest McGovern policy is merely a restatement of all proposals by him. James Reston, same page, sees something "new" in McGovern's committing himself to withdraw "all salvageable military equipment" and "terminate any shipments of military supplies that continue the war."

Sen. Fulbright (Oct. 12, AP, Pg. 3) says that pledge should be left to negotiators. Gov. Frank Church had the same misgivings.

Defense Secretary Laird said (UPI, Pg. 2, Oct. 12) McGovern would "sell out to communism the small nations of the world by retreat and surrender."

McGovern replies that it was "not exactly surrender" if we leave behind a well-trained, well-supplied South Vietnamese army (same UPI article).

Poor George — he can't make up his mind. On national TV, he states he will pull out all supplies and equipment from Vietnam. How then can he call it a "well-trained, well-supplied" army? Statements like that one kill his credibility.

Even Bob Devaney knows you can't play the game without a football.

However, I felt the most interesting change in the McGovern stance was the trick of substituting Mr. Shriver for himself when it comes time to be "begging" for the POW's. Perhaps that's because Sargent Shriver, having been U.S. ambassador to Paris, could beg in French — a language the Hanoi hot-shots understand.

JOHN B. JANECEK

Little Difference
Blair, Neb.

Richard Nixon is the first president of this nation to submit legislation for a "guaranteed income." Faulting McGovern on his "welfare position as taken," while letting Nixon go unchallenged on the issue is some like an angry dog barking at a good friend because the dogs master fed him dog food that had cereal in it.

It just doesn't make sense but what can you expect when so few of the electorate inform themselves on national issues! Really, there isn't a nickel's worth of difference in the Nixon-McGovern stands on welfare except that Nixon hasn't delivered on promises made.

DEWEY NEMETZ

Another 1929
Lincoln, Neb.

I had a letter in the paper the other day that was questioned by a lady. I want her to know that my remarks about McGovern are not running down the Democratic party. There are some good Democrats and good Republicans.

But I will condemn McGovern. If he is not leaning toward the communists, why does he always sympathize with them and want us to get down on our knees to them and beg? All his helpers are of the same notion.

I believe the Democrats knew they could not win this time and that is why the worthwhile Democrats did not try to get on the ticket. They are waiting and hoping for next time. His relief program is to give to the hippies and some who won't work even if they had jobs.

He talks about big business controlling the Republican party. I think no matter which party is in office, big business will control the country. What would happen if Big Business were cut down? There would be thousands of people out of jobs. Add them on to the number already out of work and where would the money come from to feed them?

Please give us another 1929 and 1930. That is the only way we will wake these free-loaders up. The only way the farmer is going to get his share is to form a real union, stronger than they are now so they can stick together, and not individually.

Jan Gauger
Lincoln, Neb.

A careful analysis of the issues raised and recommendations made by the candidates for county commissioner clearly indicates the administrative capability of each of the candidates for that office.

Jan Gauger's evaluation of the efficiency which now exists in many areas of county government, her innovative suggestion concerning ways to improve or eliminate specific inefficient situations and her plan to implement practical and sensible administrative practices establishes beyond a doubt that she is the best qualified candidate.

JOHN L. ALDEN

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the cause of canker sores? I used to get them one at a time. Now there are two or three at a time in different parts of my mouth. Do you have a remedy?—R.L.

The heck of it is that there's no single cause of canker sores. Among the various factors that have been related to various cases are injury to the mouth membrane, sensitivity (allergy to a considerable variety of things), poor general health, changes in the system (as with menstruation), mouth infections, even emotional stress.

So general rules for avoiding canker sores are these: make sure no lingering infection is present in the mouth; don't use too stiff a toothbrush; have any cavities or jagged teeth repaired; if you note that the cankers occur after eating some particular food, or using some specific dentifrice or mouth wash, stop using it. Sometimes tablets containing lactic acid bacilli help. Sometimes an antibiotic may be necessary.

As with any ailment for which there is no single, simple cause, various methods succeed in certain cases. When some remedy works, the user is convinced — wrongly — he has a "cure" that will work for everybody.

Three or four years ago a reader kept track of the remedies offered to him by friends, relatives and doctors. Here's his list:

From relatives: "Load up with vitamin C pills." "Gargle with salt water." "Change toothbrushes."

From friends: "Sleep on the side of the face without the canker sores." "Eat lots of oranges." "Stay away from citrus fruit." "Drink lots of water." "Avoid chocolate, french fries, etc." "Use an alum stick."

From three general practitioners: "Rinse mouth with diluted hydrogen peroxide." "Cankers will come and they will go." "Use triamcinolone acetone in emollient dental paste."

From a periodontist: "Burn them with silver nitrate."

From a dentist: "Nothing much can be done, but ease the pain with medication."

From two pharmacists: "Use a preparation containing hexachlorophene, benzocaine and tannic acid." "Use a powder of aluminum hydrate, benzocaine, magnesium trisilicate and sodium acid carbonate."

He said that, for him, the silver nitrate gets the best results, but it wasn't a remedy that one could use at home.

Then his cankers disappeared. How?

His theory: "I think the laughter I got from these 'advice' cured them. Laughter is still the best medicine."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the cause of excess watering of the eyes?—Mrs. L.

One cause is stopped-up tear ducts, so the tears overflow instead of being drained away through the ducts. But of course any sort of irritation can increase tear production.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any way to get rid of pinworms without using medication?—S.E.

None that I know of.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it a fact that sickle cell anemia affects only Negroes? Also, we just lost our son, 12, who had cystic fibrosis. Is it true that Negroes do not get this disease? How many children have cystic fibrosis in the U.S.? And why can't research find a cure for either of these diseases?—L.A.

It's not true that only blacks get sickle cell anemia, but it is vastly more prevalent among them. Otherwise it is found chiefly among people from the Mediterranean area, and is being reported among Puerto Ricans.

Cystic fibrosis occurs once in about 2,000 births, but is rare in black people.

Cures for these diseases? Great efforts are being made, and there has been progress in easing the intensity of both diseases. Both are inherited disorders, which makes cure very difficult, but research is making headway.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any scientific evidence for the claim that cholesterol can be prevented from being deposited in the arteries by using only fresh foods and avoiding "certain processed foods" and that the arteries will tend to clear themselves by continued use of this fresh food diet?—S.P.

No. No evidence of that. However, it is wise to eat only sparingly of saturated fats — which means fats that are solid at room temperature. The visible fat in meat, for example, shortening that is in solid form, butter, etc.

Substituting vegetable oils, that are liquid at room temperature, for the saturated fats is helpful in reducing the cholesterol level.

Dear Sir: My old-fashioned parents taught me to chew each mouthful of food 30 times. This was to break up the food particles to digestible size, provide enough saliva for the quantity of food, and mix food sufficiently with the saliva. My wife says this is ridiculous although she admits that some chewing is necessary for proper digestion. What do you say?—C.L.E.

Excessive chewing — and counting the chews — was called "Fletcherizing," after the man who dreamed up the notion 60 or more years ago. The idea was soon abandoned as not doing any good. Your wife is right. Sure some chewing. But not 30 times for every mouthful.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Beatrice Mayor Breaks Deadlock On Touchy 10th St. Parking Issue

Southwest Nebraska Bureau Beatrice — Mayor Bob Sargent was forced to cast a tie-breaking vote Monday night on a touchy street issue which has plagued the city council for several meetings.

In effect his vote left in force a ban against parking on the west side of 10th Street for seven blocks (Lincoln to Monroe). A petition signed by 54 residents of the area had sought to have the ban rescinded.

Councilman Allen Grell

moved that the parking be reinstated but was met with arguments that the street has been a safer route since cars were ordered off. Councilman Guy Terwilliger argued that all streets "are for movement of traffic rather than vehicle storage."

Bill Johnson, a member of the planning and zoning commission, suggested a city-wide study of traffic and parking rather than "taking streets one at a time." Sargent said such a study could easily cost $5-10,000, however, and no action was taken on the proposal.

On another matter, the council passed a resolution urging the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission to delay implementation of floodplains enforcement. The mayor reported that Gov. J. J. Exon has expressed himself similarly.

With practically no discussion, the council voted to have a resolution drafted urging the governor to retain the Beatrice State Home. Grell made the proposal after observing that "it appears some elements would like to move the home to another city."

The council also:

—referred to traffic and safety committee proposal to change street lanes in three instances—Logan, Bell and Padlock—where two streets have the same names.

—accepted $4,414 bid of Penner Insurance Agency, only one received, for automobile fleet insurance.

—postponed bids on workmen's compensation insurance until next meeting, since new rate schedules become effective Nov. 1.

—voted to prepare resolution eliminating parking on south side of Tanka Lane, also on south side of High between 6th and 7th.

—approved granting of same fringe benefits to recreation director as other city employees now receive.

—suspended rules and passed ordinance establishing new salary schedules for police and fire departments as previously approved.

—gave first-round approval to ordinance creating Paving Dist. 29, which designates 34 one or two-block segments.

of the Nebraska-Iowa District of Kiwanis by the Carl Hays, district governor from Marshalltown, Iowa.

Dr. Vaughan is head of the education department at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

He will supervise nine Nebraska clubs, including four clubs in Lincoln, and two clubs in Iowa, all in Division 14.

McGovern Boosters Take Pokes At Nixon

By The Associated Press Nebraska backers of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern issued anti-President Nixon statements Monday.

Wallace C. Peterson, University of Nebraska economist who lost his bid for the Democratic senatorial nomination in May, issued a three page statement criticizing Nixon's farm record.

"Four years ago, Mr. Nixon said a parity ratio of 74% was intolerable. Today it is only slightly higher. Sen. McGovern is pledged to a support level of 90% of parity. Sen. McGovern's farm proposals do not offer a magic, costless cure for the problems besetting rural America. But they are possible and practical," Peterson wrote.

On another matter, Jean O'Hara of Lincoln and Helen Greene of Greenwood, co-chairwomen of the National Women's Advisory Council, charged "women as breadwinners and consumers have been adversely affected by the Nixon administration's economic policies and the resulting inflation and unemployment."

The council is part of the McGovern campaign organization.

The women said they will concentrate on the issues of consumerism, child care, equal rights amendment, equal employment opportunity, unemployment, social security, educational opportunity and women in government.

Verdigre Is All-American City Finalist

Verdigre — The town of Verdigre is one of 21 cities from throughout the nation named as a finalist in the All-American Cities competition.

It is sponsored by the National Municipal League and the Saturday Evening Post.

Verdigre was selected on the basis of park development, improvement of health services and school construction. The community of 570 persons now will enter the finals competition in November for designation among about a dozen cities as All-American Cities.

The finalists were selected from more than 125 entries from across the country.

Devaney Urged To Make Appeal For Heavy Vote

Omaha (UPI) —A candidate for Douglas County Public Defender Monday urged Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney to use his statewide Nebraskans to vote in November.

Wilbur C. Smith, an Omaha attorney, told Devaney in a letter that he should make "just one radio and one television spot" urging Nebraskans to vote Nov. 7. Smith said the Devaney comments could be "made available to every radio and television station in the state at almost no cost."

Smith said Devaney was registered as an "independent", which Smith said, "is great, because there would be no political or partisan overtones of any kind."

Stop At Gordon Is Planned By Indian Caravan

Pine Ridge, S.D. — A group of some 100 Indians will go to Gordon, Neb., Tuesday as a stop in what is called a "Caravan of Broken Treaties."

The group was in Rapid City Sunday and stopped at Pine Ridge Monday on the way to Washington, D.C.

Leaders of the American Indian Movement predict that 100,000 Indians will join the march before it reaches the nation's capitol in the week before the November election.

The AIM leaders said earlier that the march seeks to dramatize the lost power minority groups and to ask that Indians not be forced into military service.

The march route is called the "Trail of Broken Treaties," the Indians say, claiming the U.S. government has broken more than 350 treaties it signed with the Indians.

Meeting Site Changed

The Lincoln Epilepsy League meeting originally scheduled to be held at the Lincoln Center Building has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at the YWCA.

BLEF Members Against Making Sale Mandatory

Members of the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds (BLEF) agreed informally Monday that the sale of state school lands should be discretionary rather than mandatory.

A 1965 legislative act forces the land sales as current leases expire. Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice has promised to introduce a bill at the 1973 session making the selling optional. Gov. J. J. Exon supports the discretionary sale concept.

BLEF administers the school land trust.

At their regular meeting Monday, BLEF members also united behind another proposal, which would allow the board to offer variable-term leases on school lands which are not sold.

Currently, the board is allowed to offer only six-year leases.

School Aid Post To Morrissey

The appointment of Thomas Morrissey of Tecumseh to the State Commission for Higher Education Aid was announced Monday by Gov. J. J. Exon.

He replaces Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln on the seven-member commission after she resigned.

Morrissey will serve a term which expires June 30, 1976.

40 Dynamite Sticks Found On Scotts Bluff Co. Road

Scottsbluff (UPI) — Scottsbluff police said Monday no claims have been placed on about 40 sticks of dynamite found near Scottsbluff during the weekend.

Police said if the dynamite is not claimed, it would be destroyed by the fire department.

Police officer Don Ewing said Mark Fowler, 18, was testing a car on a county road 1 1/2 miles north of Scottsbluff Saturday and saw the box containing the dynamite lying just off the roadside.

Ewing said the box was marked "explosives" and also contained the name of the "Scotts Bluff County Shop." However, a check with the county roads department revealed that the county has had no dynamite in stock for the past five years.

Ewing said the dynamite sticks were 1 inches wide and 8 inches long.

Transplant Patient 'Doing Fine'

After nearly two years, Mrs. Kenneth E. Smith received her long-awaited kidney transplant at the University of Colorado Medical Center in Denver.

The operation was performed Saturday and Mrs. Smith was reported "doing fine."

Prior to the operation, Mrs. Smith was kept alive through the use of a dialysis machine installed in the couple's Hickman farm home. She suffered from polycystic kidney disease and lost both her kidneys in separate operations in 1970.

Nixon Picks Eastland

Washington — The House White House issued an implied endorsement of the re-election of Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., although press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler kept it intentionally vague.

Community Unit Plan Action Delayed

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday postponed action one week on a community unit plan proposed by Austin Realty Co., at 77th and Lexington.

Attorney David Pierson told the council that the developer wants to build 48 townhouses on the 4.3 acre site, instead of four, 12 plexes. The 12-plex plan previously has been approved by the council.

Several residents of the area expressed dissatisfaction with both plans, contending that the site was to have been used for open space and park land.

Leighton Wessel, 1736 Bedloe Ct., said if the residents of the area had to choose between the two plans — they favored the townhouses over the apartments.

Although the City-County Planning Commission is recommending approval of the request, Planning Director Doug Brogden is not. He said the apartment plan provides for larger open spaces, whereas the proposed townhouse plan eliminates these areas.

Although agreeing that the usable open space is much reduced, Pierson contended the townhouse proposals is more desirable and attractive, with a better design.

In other action the council approved an ordinance which will provide additional pay for college credits earned by Lincoln firefighters.

In addition, regular city employees will get a pay boost if they take job-related courses, with the city to pay the entire cost of the course — 50% upon completion and the remainder after one year, if the employee is still working for the city.

Earlier Monday the council directed City Attorney Dick Wood to draw up an ordinance making it illegal for Lincoln residents to keep dangerous animals within the city limits.

Several council members said they had received complaints about people who are keeping poisonous snakes. Wood said the proposed ordinance would include other "dangerous" animals, including lions and tigers, in addition to poisonous snakes.

In other action the council:

Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's promise of a tax freeze was called a 'fraud' by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Danil Walker during a news conference in Chicago, Monday.

Rifles Silenced For Investigation

City Attorney Dick Wood said Monday that no rifles will be fired at the Lincoln Rifle and Pistol Club range pending an investigation.

Residents in the neighborhood of the range in Arnold Heights had lodged complaints with city and county officials that the range was a safety hazard and that bullets had whizzed through their trees.

Lancaster County Commissioner Kenneth Bourne had said last Friday that some action would be taken Monday, although he indicated that the action would come from county officials.

Wood said the investigation would be completed within this week. He said club leaders had agreed to the ban on the firing of rifles, although the pistol range will remain open. Wood said club leaders have been willing to cooperate. Bourne said that the club is giving 100 % cooperation.

Lancaster County Cancer Society Gives Support To Pap Test Proposal

A four-year program to have every woman over 20 years old receive a pap test for cancer received a boost Monday at the annual awards luncheon of the Lancaster County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Miss Kay Thompson, a member of the group's public education committee, said that local participation would include creation of task force of lay and professional volunteers.

The American Cancer Society is organizing the four-year project, known as "Let No Woman Be Overlooked."

Over 100 individuals and organizations received awards for their efforts during last year's crusade, which netted a record $42,130.

70th Improvement District Sets Informational Meeting

A special informational meeting on the 70th improvement district will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City Council chambers at the County-City Building.

Public Works Director Bob Obering, along with engineering staff members, will be available to answer questions on the 70th widening project.

The special meeting follows a public hearing on the improvement district which was held last week. The council directed that a special meeting be held since people appearing at the public hearing wanted more information on the project.

Obering stressed that Tuesday night's special meeting will be for information and questions only — not another public hearing.

The council placed the improvement district on the pending list and will hold a second public hearing on the ordinance on Tuesday, Oct. 24th.

Lawsuit Claims Police Refuse To Return Cash

Roger Allen Buss filed a suit in U.S. District Court Monday claiming that money taken from him by Lincoln Police following his arrest was never returned to him.

The suit claims that Buss was arrested and put in jail April 25, and that personal property, including $509 in cash, was taken from him.

The suit alleges that Buss was charged with burglary on April 26. He was released on bond May 1, the suit claims, and all his property but the $509 was returned to him.

The charge of burglary was dismissed on Sept. 25, the suit claims, and requests for return of the money have been denied.

The suit names Lincoln Police Chief Joe Carroll and Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas as defendants. The suit claims Buss was deprived of property without due process of the law in violation of the 14th Amendment.

Thomas G. Zichek, 23, of 5321 Zeamer, was charged Monday with delivering the controlled substance, tetrahydrocannabinol, after being arrested and jailed Sunday night.

Zichek waived preliminary hearing in Lancaster County Court and was bound over to District Court on a $1,000 bond.

According to the Lancaster County Sheriff's office, Zichek was arrested at Lincoln Air Park West by sheriff's deputies and members of the Nebraska State Patrol's drug investigation division.

He was arrested after allegedly selling 18 grams of hashish for $100 to a special employee of the State Patrol and Sheriff's office according to a spokesman.

Six People Walk To Raise Funds For Hospital

Six people walked 4.4 miles in Lincoln Sunday morning to raise money for the Danny Thomas St. Jude's Children Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

The six included Mrs. Kenneth Dill, Walk-a-thon chairman, and two children, one nine, the other ten, who walked with their parents in the rain from the Union College gym to the State Capitol building.

Mrs. Dill said the walk netted about $25 for Epsilon Sigma Alpha International who last year gave Danny Thomas a $1-million check for support of the hospital.

The Farm outlook is important. Complete coverage of the latest of importance to agriculture appears in the "Sunday Journal and Star" farm page.

ELECTIONS-1972:

NU Student Challenges Incumbent

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles about candidates who will appear on the Nov. 7 election ballot.)

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The 27th District legislative contest puts an incumbent senator who now heads the between-sessions activities of the Legislature against a 22-year-old student at the University of Nebraska.

Sen. William Swanson, appointed to the Legislature in 1967, then elected to his first term in 1968, led Steve Fowler by a 500-vote margin in the May primary election.

Causing Swanson even more apprehension may be the fact that his 2,325 primary votes represented only 33% of the ballots divided among five candidates. Fowler attracted 1,853 votes, some 700 more than his nearest challenger.

Swanson, 49, is chairman of the Legislative Council, a leadership post bestowed upon him by his colleagues in 1971. He was first appointed to the Legislature by former Gov. Norbert Thieme, filling the unexpired term of Marvin E. Stromer.

Active Floor Leader

The senator is engaged in the real estate business. In the Legislature he has been one of its more active floor leaders.

Fowler, who was student body president at NU's Lincoln campus in 1971-72, is among his activities membership in the Citizens for Environmental Improvement, Nebraska's for Peace and Common Cause.

As a candidate, he has suggested that the Legislature

may be touched by excessive lobbying influence, conflict of interest and favoritism in personnel decisions.

The 27th District contains most of west and southwest Lincoln.

Both candidates were asked their views on school aid legislation, the University of Nebraska budget and priority concerns for the 1973 Legislature.

Favors Aid Hike

Swanson said he has "long favored increased state aid to education" and believes state assistance should be increased considerably above present levels.

With those views in mind, he said, he will study both J. J. Exon's proposed plan and that which emerges from the legislative study committee on state aid to determine "which is the fairest for our young people and for all of Nebraska's citizens."

Fowler said the amount of state aid should depend on the availability of federal aid.

"I would support lowering the amount of local (property tax) support to around one-third of the cost of education," he said, leaving the state to pick up the difference between school costs and the total support generated by one-third local financing plus federal aid.

"With the present level of federal aid, this would mean the state would support about 60% of the local school costs," Fowler said.

Present Formula

Distribution should continue along the lines of the present formula which provides a foundation allotment plus equalization funds, he said.

Although he has not had an adequate opportunity to fully review the budget request of the NU Board of Regents, Swanson said, he believes "legislators should listen carefully to suggestions made by a board elected to administer the affairs of the university and then make a response in proper keeping with the resources of the state."

Swanson said he is committed to "academic excellence" at the university and would hope that NU can move "toward the top among midwestern states."

Fowler does not believe the size of the budget increase requested by the regents is "particularly out of line," although he has not yet studied the specifics of the budget proposal.

Supports Goal

"I support the goal of raising the quality of NU's academic programs throughout the coming decade and I feel that the programs in other Big Eight schools can be a worthwhile measure of progress," he said.

But, he cautioned, "I feel that we can overemphasize competing with other schools and perhaps ignore unique programs of teaching and service which our university should provide."

Fowler said he would support efforts toward "greater regional cooperation in graduate and professional education."

Swanson said he would consider sponsoring legislation in the 1973 Unicameral seeking a vote of the people on a proposed constitutional convention, providing for consumer protection, and streamlining legislative procedures.

Penal Reform

His priority concerns would include penal reform, drug control, state aid to education, revenue-sharing, welfare administration, no-fault auto insurance, appropriations, environmental control, fringe benefits for state employees, mental retardation and mental health.

Fowler said his priority concerns would be housing, senior citizens services and tax reform.

The Legislature, he said, should be able to help alleviate the tight rental housing market in Lincoln, particularly for students, low income families and senior citizens.

Fowler supports "the development of a system of community-based services for senior citizens that could serve as an alternative to nursing home care."

Tax Reform

In terms of tax reform, he favors a move away from property tax as a means of support for education and opposes "further granting of piecemeal property tax exemptions to special interest groups."

Other concerns include "government responsiveness," environmental programs, penal reform, equal rights for women, adoption of a journalistic privilege or shield law and the protection of Indian graves from vandalism.

Fowler would propose a citizens committee to study "excessive influence" by lobbyists in the Legislature, conflict of interest, campaign disclosure proposals and open legislative deliberations.

In environmental affairs, he would support repeal of the clause which now prohibits state pollution control standards from being more stringent than federal standards.

Stock Rate Application Accepted By Rail Unit

The State Railway Commission Monday accepted an application asking the commission to set minimum rates for intrastate livestock haulers.

Commissioner Eric Rasmussen said the commission will publish the application as accepted sometime this week. Before implementing the application, there will be a 30-day period for protests to be filed. If there are, then Rasmussen said a hearing will be scheduled to look into the application itself and also whether the commission has the jurisdiction to set minimum rates.

Rasmussen said the commission accepted the application to be in compliance with legal opinions which hold that the commission has the authority.

The application came from the livestock carriers division of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association. The group asked the commission to govern the intrastate hauling of livestock by setting minimum rates and adopting rules and regulations.

State's Revenue Fieldmen Switch To Phone Contact

Under a change in policy, the 26 State Revenue Department fieldmen assigned to contact erring taxpayers will make their contacts by telephone, instead of face to face.

State Tax Commissioner William E. Peters said the telephoning system was launched in the Omaha and Lincoln areas some three weeks ago and is being adopted generally. He expects a saving in costs.

Ardon Peterson, chief of field services, said his men have been averaging 35 to 60 taxpayer contacts a week under the old system. By using the telephone, a fieldman can reach as many as 25 a day, he said.

Fieldmen makes the contacts to find out why taxes have not been paid, returns are late or not filed checks bounced or only partial payments were made.

Berg Endorses Proposal Designed To Close Up Major Tax Loopholes

Fremont (UPI) — Democratic congressional candidate Darrel Berg Monday night endorsed a plan designed to plug major loopholes in the federal income tax system.

"If elected to Congress, he said, I will support a reform bill introduced by Sen. Mike Mansfield and Rep. Wilbur Mills.

Dodge County Democrats would repeal 54 major tax loopholes over a two-year period.

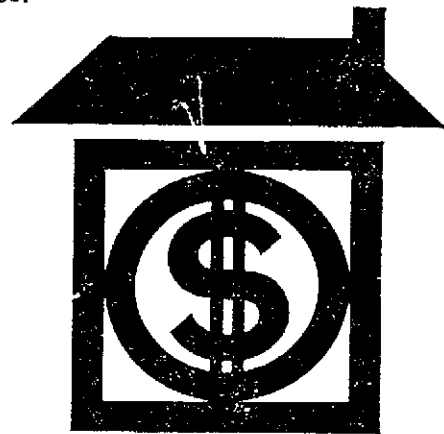

However, Berg said the objective of the measure goes beyond cutting off tax breaks.

The purpose of the legislation is to establish congressional control over our tax system, he said.

Rural Development Act Said Beneficial To State

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Wahoo — Nebraskaans were invited to "get there first with the most," by 1st District Congressman Charles Thone, at a special meeting of local area businessmen to explain the new Rural Development Act signed into law in August.

"We know that this program can be of tremendous benefit to all but two of Nebraska's 500 incorporated communities. It will be the communities that get started early with an application that will receive the most help," Thone said.

The law specifically exempts Lincoln and Omaha but apparently all other Nebraska communities could benefit in some way from the law.

"This is a brand new law. It authorizes many types of aid for various communities of different sizes. We must add that while the act authorizes spending there has as yet been no funds provided by the Congress," Thone said.

Assistance Available

Under the act Nebraska communities can receive assistance in the development of industrial parks, in obtaining needed equipment such as fire trucks, ambulances and sewage treatment and water facilities.

Other portions of the act would provide additional funds for home loans in rural areas, industrial development loans and increased amounts of money available for both farm ownership and farm operation loans.

Under Secretary of Agriculture William Erwin pointed out that people were the most important ingredient in the program in develop rural America.

Local Leadership Needed

"We can provide funds for a lot of different projects to make rural America a better place to live and to help industry become established in rural areas to provide jobs but it will take local leadership to make it work," he said.

Erwin pointed to recent studies that showed 10 jobs available in rural areas for every 18 young people growing up in the rural areas.

"Every person who leaves a small town makes it harder to keep small businesses in the local towns. Every person and the cities creates a new problem for the cities. We have got to find ways to keep people in rural areas, to provide jobs for them and to improve rural facilities so they have a better way of life," Erwin said.

'People Building'

Erwin outlined a series of programs he described as "people building programs" which he said would provide educational opportunities, training and economic opportunities for disadvantaged people who have never been able to have a decent standard of living.

Erwin indicated that concern about the environment had been a factor in getting the act passed and would play a role in the administration of the programs.

"The act has tripled the amount of money available for water and waste disposal grants and authorizes $75 million for 50% pollution abatement and control grants," said Erwin.

Erwin and Thone emphasized that the rural development programs would not establish any new federal agencies.

'No New Agencies'

"There will be no new agencies or bureaucracy. It will be handled by the Department of Agriculture through the Farmers Home Administration," Thone said.

Kenneth Bowen, administrator for the Farmers Home Administration in Nebraska said he expected his people would complete training in how to administer the new programs shortly after Jan. 1.

Thone predicted that the Congress would fund the rural development act sometime next spring.

"We don't have all the answers as to how the act will affect all situations today. If you have questions about specific problems write to us and we will get an answer back to you as soon as possible," Thone said.

Bowen said that a series of meetings had been planned for area business and community leaders in the coming months as details on the administration of the program were released.

ELEVATOR AT JANSEN HIT BY FIRE

Though this huge concrete elevator still dominates the skyline at Jansen, its smaller and older companion structure lies in ruins following a Sunday fire. Loss on the Farmers Union Co-op Assn. building was estimated at $50-60,000 by manager Gene Guilford. It is believed an overhead motor bearing started the fire. (Star Photo)

Traffic Accidents Take Lives Of 2 Nebraskans

From Press Reports

Traffic accidents have claimed the lives of two more Nebraskans.

Lawrence H. Anderson, 56, of Auburn was killed Sunday night when the car in which he was riding went out of control on a county road two miles south and six miles east of Auburn, the State Patrol said.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Denny E. Criger, 24, of Auburn.

Investigating officers said the car went out of control while passing another vehicle, went into a ditch and struck a bridge.

Wulf Krambeck, 83, of Papillion, whose car collided with another vehicle and then overturned in Papillion Creek Oct. 7, died of injuries Sunday night.

Mr. Krambeck had been thrown onto the bank of the creek as his car went into six feet of water, witnesses said.

The deaths bring the 1972 Nebraska highway death toll to 382, compared with 365 on the same date in 1971.

Govs. Exon, Hall To Head Pheasant Hunt

Broken Bow — Nebraska Gov. J. James Exon and Oklahoma Gov. David Hall will head up two of eight teams in the annual Nebraska One-Box Pheasant Hunt scheduled at Broken Bow Nov. 10-12. Other teams participating in the event include one from California, headed up by Roy Weatherby of the Weatherby Rifle Co. at Sacramento. Eddie Boin Jr., originator of the Colorado two-shot goose hunt, will head the Colorado team which will also include former Detroit Lions quarterback Bobby Layne.

4-County Home Economist Appointed

Hastings — A 1970 graduate of the University of Nebraska, Susan Rieschick, has been named a home economist to serve Adams, Nuckolls, Webster and Clay counties. A native of Falls City, she taught environmental home economics at Sidney for two years, before taking an assignment with the Douglas County Extension office.

Emergency Radio For St. Paul Approved

St. Paul — The purchase of an emergency medical radio base station for the Howard County Community Hospital at St. Paul has been approved. The radio, which will allow direct voice communication with ambulances at the scene of an accident and while en route to a hospital, will be obtained with federal matching funds.

Bicycle Registration To Be Considered

Omaha — The Omaha City Council will consider Tuesday a proposed ordinance which would require all bicycles to be registered. Bicycle registration now is optional.

Pork Producers Will Gather At Kearney

Kearney (UPI) — The Nebraska Pork Producers will hold their 11th annual banquet and queen contest Nov. 2 at the Kearney Catholic High School auditorium. In addition to announcing the 1973 pork queen, awards will be presented. Included are the builder award to the outstanding individual in advancing Nebraska pork production; three "pork chop" awards for outstanding accomplishments in the commercial pork area; a "pork all-American" from Nebraska; and a booster award to the person who has done the most to promote the pork industry in the state.

Adams County Registration Heavy

Hastings — The heaviest voter registration in many years is reported by Adams County Clerk Mrs. Anita Hawes. Record registration totals are set each time a form is completed. There are more than 16,458 registered voters in Adams County out of an estimated 20,000 eligible voters. Republicans lead the Democrats by about 1,500 registrations.

Fiddlers Select Simmons As President

Broken Bow — The Country and Fiddle Association of Nebraska, Inc. has elected Jay Simmons of Hendley as president, succeeded Gary Chase of Long Pine. Other officers, all re-elected, include Bob Kenniston of Springview, vice president; Clay Johnson of O'Neill, treasurer; and Arvilla Kenniston of Springview, secretary. About 50 fiddlers and guitar players attended the convention here — the group's third — and performed at various locations around the city.

Ground Broken For Sausage Plant

Omaha — Ground was broken Monday for a new $8 million dry sausage plant being constructed by the Cudahy Company in Omaha. Charles F. Lasbury, general manager of the Cudahy company's dry sausage division, and City Council President H. F. Jacobberger turned the first shovels full of earth for the 138,000 square foot plant. The new building will allow the company to double its work force to 500 and permit it to produce 40 million pounds of dry sausage a year, compared with 20 million pounds now.

Fall Of Catholic School System Not Forseeable

Omaha — The Rev. Alfred McBride is not one to predict the fall of the Catholic school system.

In fact, he believes the Catholic Church always will be involved in education.

"I would say that should the church terminate all its educational endeavors, a subsequent generation would have to reinvent them."

Father McBride, of Washington, D.C., is the executive director of the National Forum for Religious Educators. He is here to attend a meeting of the National Catholic Education Association's chief administrators.

About 250 educators are attending the meeting at the Hilton Hotel. Father McBride, one of the speakers, said the church has been involved in education for at least 1,600 years.

Moreover, he said, the church must be involved in education because, "God is the source of all human learning," and, he said, "The church should have simultaneous interest in the physical, emotional, intellectual and spiritual needs of all people."

Father McBride said he thinks the church should expand its current American school system to be of service "to the entire community."

He said parochial schools should open their doors to many adult education programs, including career training and teaching basic skills.

Catholic schools also should plan to serve more non-Catholic school children, he said, adding that the future could lead to more shared programs between Catholic and public schools.

He said he could even envision a situation where high school students would "trade" schools. Public school students would attend a Catholic school for a year, while Catholic students attended public schools, he said.

Aquarius Lounge Hopes To Stay Open

Omaha — Spokesmen for the Aquarius Lounge in Omaha said Monday it is hoped the lounge can continue operating despite revocation of its license by the State Liquor Control Commission.

State Sen. John DeCamp, representing John W. Dillon's Eleven Eighteen Co., which owns the license, said an incident between police and the manager of the lounge last week may "have had an influence" on the commission's decision.

Police said they entered the lounge the night of Oct. 8 to look for a suspect in a case not related to the lounge operation. Officers said they were refused admittance unless they paid a $1 cover charge and then were greeted by Aquarius manager Paul Kovar, who allegedly became abusive and shouted as if to warn the persons in the lounge that police were inside.

Kovar later said he was threatened with "continuous table to table checks" by one of the officers and that another officers "poked his finger in my chest and said he had the right to come in."

Police said they arrested Kovar and then checked some of the patrons' identifications but found no underage drinkers.

DeCamp noted that the Liquor Commission's decision followed a hearing Sept. 25, but that the revocation order Oct. 10 came two days after the arrest of Kovar. The license revocation is effective Nov. 11.

A commission spokesman said one of the reasons for the action was that Dillon was

Harvest Hindered By Damp Weather

By United Press International
Cloudy, damp weather slowed corn and grain sorghum harvest in the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska last week, agricultural observers reported Monday.

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said the slow down was hampering farmers who want to harvest this year's bumper crops and get them stored or shipped as quickly as possible.

The corn harvest is 13% completed, compared to last year's 28% rate at this time and the normal of 15%. Moisture content is averaging 24%, about 2% above a year ago, the agency reported.

Although stalk rot is evident in some areas, damage to date has been minimal except for some stalk breakage in south central Nebraska in mid-week because of high winds.

Grain sorghum is about 25% harvested, far behind last year's 72% completion rate at this time, although the normal rate at this time is 32 percent. Moisture content is averaging 20%, compared to 15% in 1971. The soybean harvest is also going slower, although moisture content is averaging about the same as last year at this time.

Wheat was reported to be making good growth, and is expected to go into the winter with adequate cover, the division said. Surface moisture was reported short in the panhandle, southwest and southeast, but moisture is adequate for wheat growth in all areas except the southeast.

The agency said the main farm activities centered around the fall grain harvest when weather permitted last week, although silage harvest and late hay harvest continued in many areas.

Livestock was reported in good condition, and there is no real effort to get cattle off ranges yet.

Possible Link Probed In Peak, Illinois Killings

Grand Island — The Hall County Sheriff said Friday an investigation will be made into a possible link between the arrest of six members of an alleged terrorist gang and the slaying of a retired Army Colonel and his teenaged daughter here last month.

"We have been contacted by them (Illinois authorities) and there will be an investigation. Their own work will be first," Sheriff Charles Headley said.

Headley said his office had "no definite suspects," although two men had been arrested in connection with the case on warrants charging drug violations.

Col. William Peak, 50, and his daughter, Barbara, 14, were found shot to death in their home Sept. 14. Peak's wife, Bernice, 49, was critically wounded.

Headley confirmed that he received a call Sept. 17 from authorities in Illinois in connection with an investigation of the De Mau Mau gang, a group of blacks linked with nine recent Illinois murders.

During his Army career, Peak had commanded a military intelligence group in Vietnam.

The De Mau Mau gang, believed to have some 400 members in Chicago and as many as 4,000 nationwide, are thought to include many Vietnam veterans who were dishonorably discharged.

Less than one week after the shootings, two men were arrested in Billings, Mont., on warrants charging them with possession of drugs in connection with the Peak case. They were David H. Jenkins, 20, and Lonnie Norman, 44. The warrants said both were from Lincoln, Neb.

Authorities alleged a car the two had in their possession matched a description of one seen near the Peak home before the shootings.

Speakers Put 'Focus On You' During Home Economics Day

Several speakers will be putting the "Focus on You" at the Home Economics Day for Homemakers Oct. 20 at the Nebraska Center on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus.

Dr. Virginia Trotter, vice chancellor for the Academic Affairs of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will welcome the homemakers at 9 a.m. Dr. Hazel Anthony, interim dean of the College of Home Economics, and Miss Agnes L. Arthaud, assistant director of the Cooperative Extension Service and chairman of Homemakers Day, will also be on hand for welcoming messages.

Mrs. Elsa Rosborough, professor at the Home Economics Department at the University of Houston, noted speaker and model will be the keynote speaker at the morning session.

Mrs. Denise Skinner, a graduate assistant in home economics administration at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will present a slide set on student life at the College of Home Economics.

Dr. Kenneth Rose, director of the Medical Laboratory and Research Program at the University of Nebraska Health Services, will head up the afternoon program. Dr. Rose has been with the student

Police Arrest Inmate Out On Work Release

A Nebraska Penal Complex inmate was arrested by Lincoln police Monday night.

Police said Robert Fuller who was on work release went to an apartment at 3048 R about 1:00 p.m. and demanded that the people drive him out of town.

The couple notified the police and the man was arrested at the apartment about 8:30 Monday night.

Capt. Lowell Sellmeyer said that although Fuller had failed to return to the penitentiary when he should have, he had not yet been listed as an escape by officials.

Census Figures Show Makeup Of City

Lincoln has more persons working in professional and related services than in any other industrial category, according to figures released by the Bureau of the Census.

The city also enjoys a high level of educational attainment and a low number of poverty-level income families.

The statistics, released by the U.S. Department of Commerce, provide a profile of Lincoln and the Lincoln Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) for 1970.

More Lincoln residents were employed as clerical and kindred workers than in any other occupational category. The second and third largest occupational fields were professional, technical and kindred workers and service workers. Second and third largest industries were wholesale and retail trade and manufacturing, respectively.

The labor force in Lincoln numbered 70,440, or 63.9% of all persons 16 years old and over. In April, 1970, the unemployment rate for the city was 3.0% compared to 2.9% for the SMSA.

Of the population 25 years old and over in Lincoln, only 14.2% had a grade school education or less and 72.8% were high school graduates, including 34.9% who had completed some years of college.

For the SMSA, the figures were 14.9% who had completed eight or fewer years of school, 71.9% who had completed high school, and 33.7% who had completed one or more years of college.

The median school years completed for persons 25 and over was 12.6 years in both Lincoln and the SMSA as a whole.

Almost one-fifth, or 18.4% of the population 25 and over in the city had completed four or more years of college, compared with 17.5 for the SMSA.

The medium income in 1969 of families in Lincoln was $9,928. This means that one-half of the families in the city had incomes below this value and one-half had incomes above it. The comparable figure for the SMSA was $9,770.

Of the 36,171 families in Lincoln, 2,040 — or 5.6% — had 1969 incomes which were below the low-income (poverty) level. The low-income level was about $3,700 for a four-person family in 1969, and about $1,800 for unrelated individuals.

Families with a woman as head comprised 35.1% of the low income families in Lincoln.

Families with income less than $5,000 were 15.4% of all families in the city, while families with income of $15,000 or more constituted 20% of the families. Thus, 64.6% of the families had incomes between $5,000 and $15,000.

In April, 1970, there were 149,518 persons living in Lincoln, which represents 89% of the total population of 167,972 in the SMSA. The racial composition of those figures include 146,225 Caucasians living in the city, or 97.8% of the total population; figures were the same for the SMSA. There were 2,168 Negroes living in the city in 1970.

Lincoln's residents made it a young city in 1970, with almost 30% of the population under the age of 18, and just more than 60% between 18-65. Persons over 65 numbered 10% of the population.

Regarding housing characteristics, of the 501,450 units in 1970, almost 95% were occupied.

The Census Bureau's "person per room" report measures overcrowding, or whether there is adequate living space per person. In Lincoln, 95.9% of the occupied housing units had one or fewer persons per room; the figure for the SMSA was 95.8%.

Another measure of adequate housing is availability of basic plumbing facilities: hot piped water, flush toilet and bathtub or shower for exclusive use. In Lincoln, nearly 1,000 housing units did not have adequate plumbing, although it represents only 2% of the city's 51,469 units.

All plumbing facilities were recorded for 98% of occupied housing units and 97.9% for the SMSA as a whole.

The median value of specified owner occupied housing units in the city was $16,310, compared to $16,198 for the SMSA.

About 94.0% of the 48,608 households in Lincoln had a telephone; 95.1% a television; 75.6% air conditioning, and 19% a dishwasher. An automobile was available to 42.511 or 87.5% of the households.

In Lincoln, 18,031 of the persons were of foreign stock, either foreign born or children of foreign born parents, accounting for 12.1% of the city's population. The largest foreign stock groups were persons or children of persons from Germany and the U.S.S.R.

More than half of the city's population moved between 1965 and 1970. Of these movers, 46.5% moved within the same county and 27.8% moved from a different county within Nebraska.

HOT MAYOR

When sparks from a torch ignited a small fire atop his head, Cleveland Mayor J. Perk burst out in flames Monday. Perk, at the opening ceremonies of the American Society of Metals at Cleveland, was using a torch to cut a ribbon and a metal bar. An official quickly patted the mayor on the head and end his reign as the hottest mayor in the nation. He may now be the most singed.

Going to move? Then notify the Circulation Dept. so you won't miss your paper. Be sure to give both old and new address.

Speakers Announced For Women's Caucus

Maxine Morrison of Omaha and Lorraine Orr of North Platte will keynote the fall convention of the Nebraska Women's Political Caucus in Lincoln Saturday.

Mrs. Morrison is chairwoman of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern's Nebraska campaign.

Mrs. Orr is regional coordinator of the Committee to Re-Elect the President. The convention will be held at the Villager Motel.

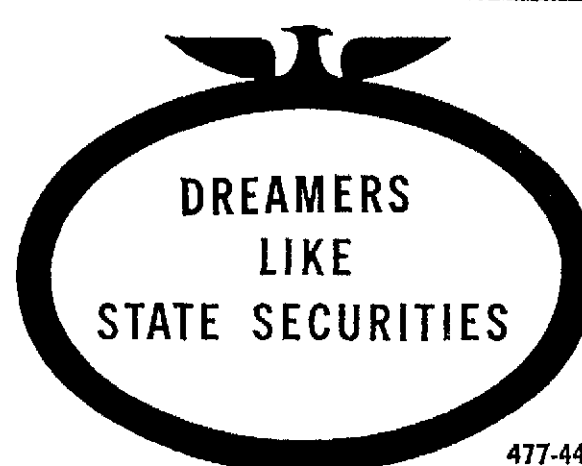

Also on the agenda are legislative candidates Bonnie Hibler of Unadilla and Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme and Shirley Marsh, both of Lincoln.

A fourth woman, M. Donald Lamp of Valley, won nomination to a seat in the Legislature, but will be unable to attend the event.

4 Nebraskans Will Be Honored

The Nebraska Agribusiness Club will honor four Nebraskans for public service to agriculture at a dinner meeting in Lincoln Nov. 6. Club president Dwayne Dietze identified the honorees as Clare Fortner, secretary-

Nixon Urged To Sign Pollution Bill

•The New York Times

Washington — The administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency has strongly recommended that President Nixon sign the $24.6 billion water pollution bill, although just a month ago the EPA head called it inflationary and predicted the agency could continue its work without the bill.

William D. Ruckelshaus, in a letter sent last Wednesday to the Office of Management and Budget, said that if the bill should fail, it would strike at the core of the water pollution program, force cuts of one-sixth of his staff and fly in the face of Nixon's public commitment to clean up the nation's waterways.

In the 33-page letter, Ruckelshaus twice "strongly" recommended that the President sign the bill.

"I believe the enrolled bill continues the existing program and is faithful to the intent of the administration's proposal," Ruckelshaus wrote.

The bill was passed by heavy margins in both the House and the Senate and was regarded by the Democratic leadership in Congress as one of its outstanding accomplishments.

It is designed to end the discharge of all pollutants into the nation's waterways by 1985. Most of the money is to go for sewage treatment facilities.

It also would require industries dumping wastes into waterways to obtain a permit from the government.

The administration had remained non-committal about whether the President would sign the bill. It has lain on his desk for nine days now and will become law without his signature if the Congress remains in session past midnight Tuesday.

Democratic leaders in both the House and the Senate have made it clear that they will stay in session to prevent any pocket veto of the bill. If they had adjourned over the weekend and the bill was not signed by the President, it would have automatically died. If he should veto the bill, Congress appears to have enough votes behind the measure to override his veto.

Arizona Troopers Arrest Fugitive From Nebraska

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP) — A man described as armed and dangerous in a warrant issued in Hastings, Neb., for fraud was arrested here Sunday night after a routine traffic violations the highway patrol said.

Ronald Max Evans, 28, was held pending extradition, patrolmen said. Officers said Evans offered no resistance when he was apprehended in a car reported stolen in Colorado.

Patrolmen said they stopped the vehicle when its driver, Olga F. Messick, 17, changed lanes illegally on a freeway. Miss Messick, who had no driver's license, was referred to juvenile authorities, officers said.

The warrant against Evans said he had used several aliases, and charged him with misuse of credit cards, the highway patrol said.

Sullivan Admits He Initiated Review Of Driving Record Of Program Foe

State Motor Vehicles Director John Sullivan admitted Monday that it was he and not Gov. J. J. Exon who initiated a review of a driving record of a critic of Exon's highway safety program.

The critic was Herb Hartman of Oshkosh, who had said he would circulate petitions protesting Exon's directive to the State Patrol to halt the practice of issuing warning tickets to speeders.

The directive is part of Exon's drive to cut down accidents.

"First of all, Governor Exon did not initiate a review of your driving record, the director of motor vehicles did," Sullivan said in a letter to Hartman.

"Please be aware of the fact that a driving record is a matter of public record," Sullivan said.

The "real issue" is "what can we do to stem the tide of slaughter and maiming that is going on our highways," Sullivan said.

Monopoly Game Was Invented By Jobless Salesman In 1930s

By ROBERT PETERSON
I've never cared much for the game of Monopoly. But it has been a runaway best seller for decades. Kids love it, many middle-agers play it regularly, and when I visited a New York senior citizen center last week four retirees were deeply absorbed in the game.

The origin of the game adds up to another Life-Begins-At-Forty story. It began in the 1930s when the late Charles Darrow was 41 years old.

"Things were rough in depression days," mused Darrow when I talked with him several years ago. "I had lost my job as a stove salesman and was running around doing odd jobs to support my wife and children."

"One evening I was sitting in the parlor after supper and got an idea for a game involving quantities of paper money to use for speculation. I designed a playing board on a piece of linoleum and painted the design. Then I typed cards on cardboard. I explained the game to my wife and she liked it. So did our friends. I made up copies of the game and sold them around the neighborhood to pick up a little cash."

"I began wondering if maybe I could make some money from the game so I submitted it to one of the country's largest game publishers. But they turned it down flat and gave me 52 reasons why it would never be a success. It was far too complicated, they said, and would cost too much to produce. So I submitted it to another leading publisher. He turned it down just as quickly.

"My optimism was pretty well shot, but I decided to try manufacturing the game myself and sell it as best I could. The demand grew slowly and two years later Parker Brothers, who turned it down originally, came and offered to take over production and distribution and give me a five per cent royalty."

He said the game had reaped him well over a million dollars in royalties in ensuing years, so I asked how it felt to be rich. "It feels better than to be poor," he said, "but after you've got money it doesn't impress you quite so much. I've gotten a lot of big royalty checks, but nothing has impressed me as much as my first royalty check—a whopping $8,000. It came when I was approaching my 50th birthday. It looked so monumental and incredible that no sum I have seen since, including statistics on the national debt, has impressed me more."

When the money began rolling in Darrow and his wife did most of the things you and I would do if we hit the jackpot. They spent some three months a year traveling to such remote and exotic places as Turkey, China, Polynesian ports, Australia and Africa.

They they settled down for the remaining nine months on a rolling 300-acre farm near Ottsville, Pa., where they planted the crops, raised orchids in a greenhouse, and enjoyed the shifting seasons.

Darrow lived to be 80 and no doubt derived much quiet satisfaction in later years contemplating the freedom and security which can stem from spawning a successful idea and having the patience and confidence to nurse it into a profitable reality.

Dental Student Wives Attend Annual Tea

Members of the Dental Student Wives organization gathered on Sunday afternoon Oct. 15 for their annual tea. Serving as hostess at her home for the event was Mrs. Richard Bradley, the wife of the dean of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry.

Mrs. Steven Gallagher is serving as president of the group for the 1972-73 year and the other officers include Mrs. Dennis Nachtigal, first vice-president; Mrs. Lawrence Pilgram, second vice-president; Mrs. Scott Dwojak, secretary; Mrs. Ed Vigna, treasurer; and Mrs. William Nelson, publicity chairman. Mrs. Stephen Leeper is sponsor of the organization.

The News In Suburbia

Who could have asked for a lovelier weekend?

The weather was just perfect for a football game — alternately sunny and cloudy, with temperatures just a bit on the brisk side — a perfect indication that autumn is here, and that all of the ghosts and goblins will be coming out soon for their annual visit to Lincoln.

The weekend brought another group of visitors to Lincoln. The Californians for Nebraska observed their annual homecoming festivities, which included a trip to Memorial Stadium for the Cornhuskers' solid showing against Missouri.

However, there were other California residents visiting here over the weekend — and they also spent Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium, although they were not a part of the chartered excursion.

Those extra visitors were the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shoemaker of Trendwood — and they couldn't still be marveling at All American Johnny Rodgers' antics on the field as well as the other exciting moments that occurred during their all-too-brief visit.

The guests who arrived on Wednesday and remained through Sunday were Mrs. Shoemaker's sister, Miss Marjorie Dewey, and her cousin, Miss Kay Kelley, both of Sacramento, Calif.

By the way, Miss Kelley observed her birthday while visiting in Nebraska — and the celebration took the form of a steak fry. The group took in the countryside near the State Recreation Area at Crete before beginning with the birthday festivities.

Speaking of birthdays, Mr. and Mrs. Glen R. Hansel and their son Bob, all of Eastridge, were hosts and hostess at a family dinner held at the Lincoln Municipal Airport on Friday evening, Sept. 29. Guest of honor at the family affair was Mr. and Mrs. Hansel's daughter, Mrs. Randy Basler, who celebrated her 18th birthday on Saturday, Sept. 30. Of course, Mrs. Basler's husband also joined in the celebration.

When eight-year-old Jeff Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Wilson, celebrated his birthday on Friday, Sept. 22, he chose to follow what has become a family tradition.

For as long as he can remember Jeff has observed each birthday by entertaining a group of his friends at a weiner roast. And this year's party was no exception as Jeff played host at a weiner roast which was held at Pioneer's Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Bacastow of Southwood and their children, Michael, Jennifer and Suzanne, recently entertained a very special houseguest — Mr. Bacastow's mother, Mrs. Grace Bacastow, of Hummelstown, Pa., who enjoyed a vacation in the Midwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bockoven of Lincoln Heights were delighted to announce that Mr. Bockoven's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Geno Pavon of Susanville, Calif., arrived on Tuesday, Oct. 3 for a visit with relatives and friends in the area.

It seems that while here Mrs. Pavon celebrated her birthday on Wednesday, Oct. 4. In honor of the occasion, a group of her friends in Lincoln honored her at a birthday dinner on Wednesday evening at the Ramada Inn. Those attending in addition to Mr. Pavon and Mrs. Bockoven were Mrs. Gilbert White, Mrs. John Cutshall, Mrs. Wayne Siegrist, Mrs. Don Freeman, Miss Jane Bockoven, and Jim Standley.

The Pavon couple traveled to Quincy, Ill., on Thursday, Oct. 5 to spend a day visiting Mrs. Pavon's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Rottman. When they returned to Nebraska, there was plenty of time for them to visit with their Lincoln friends and relatives before departing for their California home on Monday, Oct. 9.

Two items of interest came to us this morning from the Clifford Place home of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Kubler.

The first concerns a recent life insurance seminar for the Mutual of Omaha Life Insurance Company, which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Kubler. Held at the Lodge of the Four Seasons at the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri, the seminar began on Sunday, Oct. 1, and although there were several meetings to attend the Kublers still had time to go sightseeing at Bagnell Dam and Bridal Cave. Also, because the weather was so beautiful, they were able to go water skiing and horseback riding.

Before their return to Lincoln on Monday, Oct. 9, Mrs. Kubler, as well as several other wives of those who attended the seminar, enjoyed participating in an art class being conducted by Bussu, a well-known Japanese artist.

Our second bit of news about the Kublers concerns not only Mr. and Mrs. Kubler but also their children, Michelle and Jon. It seems the foursome will be moving to Columbus on Nov. 3 due to the fact that Mr. Kubler is opening an insurance office in that area soon.

YWCA Classes Are Scheduled

The Young Women's Christian Association will start a new series of seven-week classes beginning on Monday, Oct. 30, and all sessions will be held at the Central Building at 1432 "N" Street.

New this year is the 'Aqua Exercise' program for women. The classes will meet twice a week and all activity will be conducted in the swimming pool.

Other programs for adults, including yoga, volleyball, tennis and golf also will be offered this fall as well as a tumbling class for boys and girls six years and over.

Swimming classes for all ages—three months and over—and all levels of swimming are scheduled for children and adults. Classes for preschoolers are listed for morning and afternoon hours; for six years and over, after school and on Saturdays. There also are water babies and classes for four- and five-year-olds on Saturdays.

At 1:30 o'clock each afternoon, except Sundays, the pool is scheduled for open swims. Families may swim on Tuesdays at 7:30 o'clock, Fridays at 4:30, 5:15, 6:00, and 6:45 o'clock, and Saturdays at 2:30 o'clock.

The 50-Mile Swim Club is open to members who wish to swim laps. There is a limit of five at one time in the pool.

Swimming for the convalescent and handicapped is scheduled for Thursday afternoons at 4:15 to 6:30 o'clock. Permission from a physician is required.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

A declarer can, of course, play his hearts content for it does not matter whether he fools partner but a defender must be wary of falsecarding since the victim of the deception may prove to be his partner instead of declarer.

Despite this, there are occasions when a defensive falsecard cannot possibly trap partner into an error but may result in deceiving declarer. Here is such a case.

West led the king of hearts. Declarer won with the ace and played a club, finessing the queen. West dropped the jack.

the queen, hoping that the second would deflect South to the normal course of play.

Declarer assumed that the queen was in the K-9 and played it. West, winning the trick, then played the jack. Declarer now made the mistake of playing the queen.

Had declarer played a club, the queen would have been done. He would have lost the trick to the king of hearts. He could then have played the dummy's queen and lost the trick to the king of hearts. In fact, since the ace of diamonds and a lead a trump from dummy to trap East's queen, K-9.

It would be unfair to blame South for failing to cash the ace of clubs after West had dropped the jack on the queen. He had no way of knowing that the trumps were divided 2-2 and that West's jack play was sheer whimsy. But the failure to discard a spade from dummy on the queen of hearts was a mistake of the first order.

MISS TERESA AXBERG

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Axberg are announcing the engagement of their daughter Miss Teresa Axberg, to Glen Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Schultz of Walton.

A spring wedding is planned. Miss Axberg is a student at the University of Nebraska where she majors in speech pathology. Mr. Schultz, a former student at the university, is presently serving with the Army National Guard.

Programs, Meetings

Mrs. Bertrand Schultz will address the members of Chapter FG, PEO, when that group meets at the home of Mrs. Arlen Beam, 7801 Sandalwood, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 17.

Mrs. Schultz will discuss her recent trip to the USSR at the 7:30 o'clock meeting.

"Know the Highway Patrol" will be the topic for discussion at the Tuesday evening, Oct. 17, meeting of Chapter GW, PEO, which will take place at the home of Mrs. Greg Schnasse, 7221 Seward.

The program for the 7:30 o'clock event will be presented by Mr. Schnasse.

Mrs. William Nelson will assist Mrs. Schnasse with her duties as hostess.

Mr. Richard Knight will entertain the members of PEO Chapter GV when they meet at her home for a coffee and program meeting on Tuesday morning, Oct. 17.

The 10 o'clock meeting will be preceded by a coffee which is scheduled to begin at 9:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. R. French Jr., will present the program on ecology, and assisting hostesses for the meeting will include Mrs. W. W. Wiegert and Mrs. Jon Hinrichs.

Abby: visit an art museum

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the mother of little girls who wanted to bathe her neighbor's little boy (with her little girls "helping") so they could see what a little boy looked like has been on my mind. Maybe the little boy is just curious, and should get equal time. Sounds awful to me!

It reminds me that while traveling in Italy many years ago and visiting churches; women with bare arms were not permitted in churches for fear the monks would be "disturbed." Meanwhile, these monks would be seen roaming around the art galleries gazing at the nude paintings!

Perhaps the mother should take her curious daughters to an art museum. There are plenty of nude figures there and no one thinks a thing of it.

NEW YORKER
DEAR NEW YORKER: And if they're ever in Florence (Italy), they shouldn't miss Michelangelo's "David."

DEAR ABBY: At the beginning of summer I made up a "time schedule for my children, since I didn't want to go thru another summer seeing them lie around doing nothing all day.

Some children are lucky enough to have summer jobs, or go to summer school, or summer camp, but judging from the favorable comment from neighbors, friends and repairmen who have seen my schedule posted on my kitchen wall, it's a pretty good idea.

I make a "chart" listing chores that must be done daily (Monday thru Saturday—Sunday is a "free" day), and I indicate which child is to do what on each day. It works like a charm, especially when I tell one of them to take out the garbage, and he says, "It's HER turn . . . I did it yesterday." Then trying to be fair, I wrack my brain trying to remember who was right.

I'm sorry I didn't think of sharing this idea with your readers sooner, Abby, but there is always next summer.

LUCILLE H.

POSTCARD
by

Sten R. Laplante

Wine and love, spaghetti dinners and candlelight are the stuff life is made of. We are up in the wine valleys of California, Sonoma and Napa. Side by side, with a ridge of mountain between. High country filled with winter-rain creeks. Feathery, dripping redwoods and smooth-red madrone trees.

The country is chock-a-block with deer who draw an occasional mountain lion around.

There used to be California grizzly bears up here. The same kind the artist painted on the flag at Sonoma. But they're all gone now. From the top of the pass, you can look down into each valley: the flat green floor of Napa; the rolling hills of Sonoma.

Sonoma is not a big town. But they have an enormous central square left over from Spanish days.

That and the rebuild Mission — as far north as Spain got. Some fine adobes. It's a low slung town. Mostly one story buildings.

Then there's the Bear Flag monument.

On a morning in June (125 years ago), a trapper named Ezekiel Merritt rode over here with 50 men from Sutter's Fort on the Sacramento.

They captured the town. Captured General Vallejo — his home at the end of the town here and worth seeing.

It was a daffy sort of raid. Fremont was out in California at the time, stirring up trouble. Seeing himself at the head of an empire.

There was enough Mexican-American friction that Merritt talked the other boys into the raid.

Anyway, they had the town now. Right across from the ice cream parlor is where they began drawing up wordy documents of freedom and manifest destiny and such drum roll words.

Somebody painted the bear on the flag. Painted "California" below it. Left out the last "i" in California and had to insert it above.

They hoisted it on a pole — where the California Bear Flag flies today.

Everybody said the bear looked more like a pig than a bear.

Then they all went out and got drunk.

It's grand living country. Superb climate. An hour's drive from San Francisco.

Union General John F. Miller retired from the wars to a colonial home above Napa. (This is the clubhouse for the Silverado Country Club — a hundred million dollars of Hawaii money in the project.)

General "Hap" Arnold left the Air Corps and sat on a ranch porch up here. (Flyers from Hamilton Field on the way home would drop down and give the general a little illegal buzz.)

Businessmen buy places up here. Weekend on little vineyards of personal grapes.

Forecast For Tuesday

Leo takes compliments and criticisms to heart. These natives find it difficult to relax, seem constantly to be "on stage." When relaxation does occur, it usually involves Arles and Sagittarius, with Libra also very much in picture. Leo natives currently are going through a period of re-evaluation. By November, many of these natives will have bounced back from adversity. There will be greater emotional and financial security. Leo is the natural fifth sign of the zodiac, related to the sun and number one and associated with the back and heart.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Family member becomes inextricably involved where your desires are concerned. Home basic security is featured. Income from professional endeavors also is in spotlight. Cancer person plays key role.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Flexible approach brings desired results. Review ambitions. You may find that what seemed necessary was merely a passing fancy. Sagittarius could play important role. Check travel possibilities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): You succeed in removing some basic restrictions. There will be, for you, greater freedom of thought, action. Keep communication lines clear. Write, advertise and publish. Catch up on correspondence. Let others know your views.

CANCER (June 22-July 22): Your ability to dig for information is emphasized. One close to you asks money question. You have answers. Be direct. Avoid excess modesty. Find expression for feelings. News is received concerning investment.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23): Home, marriage, domestic situation in general is spotlighted. You learn lessons. All may not be laughter, but there is much wisdom. Listen, observe and learn. Mate or partner takes initiative. Be amiable.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23): Don't fool yourself about basic chores, health, details necessary to complete a big project. View facts as they exist. Recognize need for change of pace. Paces person is in picture. Protect right to privacy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Accent is on powerful emotional response. You cannot expect anything new to occur in lukewarm manner. Don't play games—stakes are high and for keeps. Love is dominant. Member of opposite sex may have you slightly dizzy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Finish rather than start. Round out project. Strive to reach more persons with message. Consult expert. Aries could aid. Take chance with pioneering concept. Property value should be considered.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): New people come into your life via short journeys, messages, social introductions. Leo could be featured. A recent new idea. Original approach has best chance for success. Be independent without being arrogant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Money gained now through conservative approach. You may have to appease family members. Obtain hint from Cancer message. Be practical about possessions. Check values. Don't stretch budget to breaking point.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Contacts made now have long-range effect. One who lauds much may have serious intentions. Know it and prepare accordingly. Make long-range plans. Be willing to laugh at your own foibles. Sagittarius figures prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Mystery is solved if you are persistent. Take nothing for granted. Check with representative of special group, society. Be an investigative reporter. Verify information. Discard rumors. You are on brink of valuable discovery.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY project initiated in September is due to blossom—with profitable results. Leo could figure prominently. You are creative, attractive to opposite sex and have knack of achieving goals. In November, travel is on agenda and also an accelerated social schedule.

Letter Released In Kotouc Case

By The Associated Press
Former Nebraska Gov. Robert Crosby Monday released the text of a letter from an Army officer which Crosby said makes "entirely clear" Capt. Eugene Kotouc was unfairly rated last year.

Kotouc was last year cleared of charges of murder and maiming in an incident related to the My Lai massacre and now charges the Army is unfairly trying to dismiss him.

Kotouc, a career officer from Humboldt, Neb., is seeking a hearing before Army Secretary Robert Froehke or Defense Secretary Melvin Laird in the matter.

Crosby, Kotouc's attorney, made public a letter from Capt. Norman Cooper regarding Kotouc's duty at Fort McPherson, site of Kotouc's court martial.

The letter from Cooper was included in a letter sent by Crosby to Nebraska Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska and Rep. Charles Thone.

"The enclosed letter makes it entirely clear that Capt. Kotouc could not fairly be the subject of a performance rating during the time that he was at Fort McPherson," Crosby said.

"It was during this time that one of the rather unfavorable efficiency reports was made," Crosby wrote.

The letter from Cooper, Kotouc's Army defense attorney, said Kotouc "was never assigned a meaningful job at Fort McPherson." It also said "It was absolutely impossible for him to effectively undertake a normal duty assignment."

"In brief, Capt. Kotouc's situation made it patently absurd for any realistic efficiency reports to have been rendered while he was stationed at Fort McPherson," said Cooper.

Cooper said Kotouc "was treated as an official and unofficial pariah at Fort McPherson."

The rating of Kotouc was made by Maj. Robert Schneider, whom Cooper said saw Kotouc "on perhaps two occasions."

"Having no basis in fact upon which to predicate a meaningful judgment, suffice it to state that any rating by Major Schneider would be tantamount to an empty and hostile gesture," Cooper said.

Fowler Blasts Amendment 1

Legislative candidate Steve Fowler of Lincoln said Monday voters in November ought to reject constitutional amendment No. 1, which would require a person to be 21 or older to run for the Legislature.

If approved, the amendment "would be a serious reversal of the recent trend to involve 18, 19 and 20 year olds in the political process," he said.

Fowler, who was 21 at the time of the May primary, noted the amendment would not personally affect him, "but I'm still concerned that amendment number one be defeated to guarantee that 18-20 year olds have full participation in our democracy." Fowler, former student body president at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, challenges the re-election bid of Sen. William F. Swanson of Lincoln in the 27th Legislative District.

Suderman Condition Reportedly Critical

Edmonton (AP) — Dick Suderman, a defensive end with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, was in critical condition Monday with what doctors described as a congenital aneurysm — a swelling of a blood vessel in his head.

Eskimos General Manager Norm Kimball said the term "congenital" implied that Suderman was born with a defect that could lead to this condition and that it did not appear to be connected with his playing in a game against the British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Saturday night.

NU Cagers Missing 'The Big Boys'

... QUICKNESS AND SPEED MAY BE GAME PLAN

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

From the tallest to shortest member of this season's Nebraska basketball squad, there is an aura of cautious optimism.

With seven lettermen including three seniors, coach Joe Cipriano began his 10th year at the Husker controls with a three-hour drill on Sunday and the annual press-photo day on Monday.

An abundance of quality guards, yet inexperienced frontliners will force NU to rely on quickness and speed — something the installation of the 30-second clock in the Big Eight may aid.

"I know we're going to be able to make up for it (lack of height) with quickness — we're going to fast break more," says Brendy Lee, who at 6-8 is the tallest Husker. "I'll probably play center this year, but I'll be a little smaller than other centers."

The Brush, Colo. junior, played three years at center in high school. He quickly named Iowa State's Tom O'Connor at 7-0 and Kansas State's Steve Mitchell (6-10) as two conference centers with height advantages.

Kent Reckewey, who rewrote the state tournament scoring records while leading Lincoln East to the Class A title two seasons ago, is expected to battle veterans for a starting guard berth. The Huskers' "faster" game is tailored to his liking.

"The 30-second rule will quicken up the game and that'll make us run more, get up and down the court faster," he said. "If there's one thing that I can do, that (faster pace) would have to be it."

At 6-1, Reckewey is among the shortest of Huskers. After a phenomenal high school career, he paced last season's NU freshmen with a 19.8 points-per-game average.

"It's going to be a new experience — I hope I have a real shot at a starting spot," he said. "I know our quickness will help us be a good team."

Others in the guard fight include lettermen Tom Gregory (6-4), Lee Harris (6-2) and Tom Novak (6-1) and sophomores Jim Goodrich and Jud Martin.

The major rebuilding effort after losing last season's entire frontline and four leading scorers, including all-Big Eight center Chuck Jura, is finding the "big boys."

Tony Riehl, a forward throughout high school and his first two seasons at NU, may alternate between a guard and forward role.

"I'd like to play guard because I like to run, but I probably could play better up front," the 6-4 senior from Louisville, Ky. said. "I think I could play better up front because with a big man guarding me, I'd probably be a little quicker than he is."

Hampered through much of last season with ankle problems, Riehl said he has his ankles taped before each practice. He added that he has encountered no difficulties with them in early workouts.

Cal Christline, a two-year senior letterman at 6-6, is expected to vie with sophomores Steve Erwin (6-4), Don Jackson (6-7) and Dave Nuss (6-8) and transfer Quincy Wallace (6-4), Odessa, Tex. (Junior College) for frontline posts.

NU finished last season at 7-7 in league action (good for a fourth place tie with Kansas) and 14-12 overall. If optimism can produce victories, those totals may be surpassed.

—DISPLAY UNPLANNED— Investigation Set For Card Section

By United Press International

University of Nebraska officials were investigating circumstances Monday which resulted in a series of unplanned messages being displayed by the card section during Saturday's football game.

George Round, director of public relations for the University, said officials were in the process of visiting with student groups responsible for the card section.

The half-time show during the Nebraska-Missouri game was scheduled to be a salute to the U.S. Navy on its 177th anniversary, to coincide with band activities on the field.

But instead, the cards spelled out such messages as "Screw Mizzou," "Johnny Rodgers is Shifty" and "Devaney For President."

Round, however, said as of early Monday morning it appeared few fans attending the game noticed the unscheduled display. He said he has not had a single complaint.

Ken Bader, vice chancellor for student affairs, said officials were also investigating dormitory signs which were along the same lines.

Groups responsible for those, he said, would be given warnings "that the displays did not meet with the approval" of the University.

Bader also said the University "will do everything possible to see that such incidents do not occur in the future."

State Meet Net Pairings Announced

The Nebraska Schools Activities Association Monday announced pairings and seedings for the state high school tennis tournament Thursday and Friday at Omaha's Dewey Park.

Omaha Metro champion Creighton Prep is expected to defend its state Class A championship with Lincoln Southeast its closest challenger. Columbus, Beatrice and Kearney are the favorites in the Class B division.

Prep's Matt Iversen was seeded No. 1 in the singles and teammates Joe Cleary and Toby Cudahy No. 1 in the doubles. Beatrice's Bill Roach, runner-up in Class B last year, is the top singles seed this year.

Kearney's Bruce Bamford and Greg Kirby were the No. 1 seeded doubles team. No. 2 in Class B is the Lincoln Pius X doubles team of Jim Schuster and Dwayne Strausburg, a pair of seniors who reached last year's semifinals.

Lincoln Southeast's John Duncan was second-seeded in Class A singles. Three Capital City teams were seeded in doubles — East's John Crancer and Craig Pohlman, No. 2; Lincoln High's Paul Grosscup and Brian Rugg, No. 5; and Southeast's Dan Weaver and Andy Berger, No. 8.

Competition begins both Thursday and Friday at 9 a.m.

Yell Squad Disbanded At Creighton

Omaha (AP) — Creighton University will not have cheerleaders during the basketball season this year.

The Rev. Michael Sheridan, S.J., vice president for student personnel, said he wants to avoid the possibility of a controversy over standing during the national anthem which brought about a disbanding of the group last year.

Last year, six of the 11 squad members quit or were suspended in protest of a university decision that they must stand during the playing of the national anthem.

The squad later was disbanded.

Father Sheridan said the matter may be reconsidered next year.

Colt Owner Fires Coach

Baltimore (UPI) — Don McCafferty, who came into this season armed with the best winning percentage among American Football Conference coaches and the 1971 Super Bowl title was fired Monday by the Baltimore Colts.

Colt general manager Joe Thomas, citing the Colts' dismal 1-4 record this year, named defensive line coach

John Sandusky, 46, as head coach for at least the remainder of the year.

Thomas and his new mentor immediately promised to give younger players more opportunity to play. Among those mentioned to get more playing time is 25-year-old backup quarterback Marty Domres for star Johnny Unitas who will be 40 next May.

When he took control of the team, owner Bob Irsay said Unitas would be his first string quarterback.

The front office pledged to honor McCafferty's contract of "several years."

McCafferty, dubbed "the easy rider" for his easy-going style of coaching, became head coach in 1970 after Don Shula, a stern disciplinarian, left for Miami.

McCafferty maintained his style in his good-bye remarks saying "It's the owner's prerogative to change personnel. I'll miss the players and the loyal Baltimore fans."

He had no immediate job-hunting plans.

Rate Hikes By Hospitals Face Checks

A rate review committee set up to oversee hospital costs plans to look into recent rate increases at two Nebraska hospitals, committee members decided Monday.

The committee was set up by the Nebraska Hospital Reimbursement Plan and met Monday to establish mechanics for conducting its work. It is sponsored by the Nebraska Hospital Association.

LeRoy Rogers, director of the plan, told the committee Bishop Clarkson Hospital in Omaha and Memorial Hospital in Seward recently increased rates.

"They can be rejected or accepted by us after proper procedures," Rogers told the committee.

The two are among a dozen hospitals in the pilot rate review project set up to determine whether rate changes are justified.

Walter Waas, Memorial Hospital administrator in Seward, was puzzled Monday as to why the board might have pulled out the Seward hospital for a recent rate increase.

"We haven't increased our rates since last January and we're not feeling any pinch right now to justify our even thinking about it," he said.

Waas said the less than 5% rate increase last January for a semi-private room to $31 per day was in keeping with federal wage and price guidelines.

The committee agreed to set up a pair of evaluation boards, one for hospitals of up to 200 beds and another for hospitals with more than 200 beds.

Rogers said he believes the project will help meet public demands for disclosure of hospital cost records.

Arrests In Chicago Are Criticized

Chicago (AP) — Two black leaders Monday characterized as political charges by authorities that Negro terrorist gangs were out to slaughter whites. They also criticized officials for the way they handled arrests in nine Illinois slayings.

Six young black men are in custody, charged with murdering nine white persons and accused of belonging to a gang motivated by racial hatred and committed to violence. Two other black men charged in the slayings were being sought.

The arrests and charges were announced at a news conference Sunday by Sheriff Richard J. Elrod and State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan of Cook County (Chicago).

Elrod accused those charged of roaming the countryside and randomly seeking out white persons to kill. He said the men were members of the "De Mau Mau" gang, characterized as being made up primarily of Vietnam veterans.

Both Charles G. Hurst Jr., president of Malcolm X College in Chicago, and Barry Wright, national commander of the Concerned Veterans of Vietnam, contended that the way in which the arrests were handled was politically inspired.

Hanrahan is seeking re-election in the Nov. 7 election and is on trial in Circuit Court, charged with covering up facts in the police slaying of two Black Panther party leaders almost three years ago.

"It's obvious," Hurst said at a news conference, "that Mr. Hanrahan needs something sensational at this point to spur the campaign."

Four, and possibly five, of the suspects are former students at Malcolm X, a predominantly black two-year college and an active force in the black community.

Strike Ended At GM Plant

By The Associated Press

The United Auto Workers union called off its strike at the main General Motors stamping plant in Mansfield, Ohio, Monday and averted a strike at the Buick plant in Flint, Mich.

The walkout of 2,300 at the Mansfield plant began on Friday and the automaker and the union said if it had lasted it could have imperiled all GM assembly operations.

Strikers at the Mansfield plant were protesting the speed of the assembly line as well as the number of employees on

IBM's Stock Plunges

New York (AP) — The Justice Department's announced intention to break up the nation's largest computer company, coupled with all the other factors which have been troubling the stock market, recently produced a roller-coaster dip in stock prices Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 6.80 to 921.66. On the Big Board, 963 issues declined, and only 415 advanced among the 1,479 issues exchanged. Volume was a light total of 10.95 million shares, down from 12.87 million Friday.

After the government said it would seek to break up IBM into smaller companies as part of a long-pending antitrust action left over from the Johnson administration, the computer giant's stock plunged 1 1/2 to 364 1/2.

What Bradbury Thurlow of Laidlaw & Co. called "an IBM wave emanating from IBM" spread out and affected the market in general.

It was the fourth straight day of declines for the market, and there was no shortage of explanations for the underlying causes. Various analysts mentioned fears of renewed inflation, rising interest rates, a possible postelection tax increase, the lack of a Vietnam settlement, and election uncertainty.

"A great many of our customers have just made up their minds not to buy until after the elections," said Bradbury Thurlow of Laidlaw & Co.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks lost 61 for the day to close at 58.49. The price-earnings ratio at the American Stock Exchange dropped .11 to 25.69.

Pacific Petroleum, Ltd., was the Big Board's most active issue, down 4 3/8 on a volume of 283,000 shares. A company spokesman attributed the drop to statements by the government's British Columbia that it might nationalize Western Petroleum, which is 26% owned by Pacific.

Polaroid gained 2 1/2 to 113 in what analysts described as a bounce back from losses suffered recently after the disappointing earnings report and the announcement of increased competition in the instant-camera field. At its current price, the stock looked to a bargain to some investors.

General Motors, bedeviled by a series of strikes at various plants, fell 1 1/2 to 74.

Allegany Corp., which announced it would sell some of its assets as part of the railroad's complex re-financing plan, was off 1 1/2 to 12 1/2.

Most Grain Futures Up

Chicago (AP) — Late, new buying and short-covering lifted most grain futures prices higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday with wheat in the forefront on an advance of 3 1/4 cents a bushel.

Soybeans gained 1 1/4 cents, although the lightly traded November 1973 option closed 3 cents higher. Corn advanced nearly 1 cent and oats gained 1 1/2 cents.

Soybean oil moved up some 15 points and soybean meal gained nearly $1 a ton in the nearby options, although deferred were off.

At the close, wheat was 3 1/2 to 4 cents above bid, December 3 1/2 to 4 cents higher, November 3 1/2 to 4 cents higher, November 3 1/2 to 4 cents higher.
